New BCHIS Ruling Termed 'About Face'

Former Inquiry Board Head
Says Soeds Complete Circle

By GORDON FORBES

The Social Credit government "fumbled" hospital insurance from the start and now has realized the soundness of the Hospital Insurance Inquiry Board's report, Kamloops' Sydney Smith, chairman of the Coalition government-appointed board, said today.

Mr. Smith, in a telephone interview with the Times, said the government's action in returning to a compulsory system is a "complete about face."

Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin announced the reversal in policy after a special cabinet meeting late Tuesday. It means an end to the government's ill-fated semi-voluntary plan which has been under constant attack since its institution last year.

"The Soeds have completed the circle," Mr. Smith said. "He pointed out that one of his board's strongest recommendations was that hospital insurance must be kept compulsory."

"The Soeds stole two general elections and two by-elections by promising people they could operate hospital insurance on a voluntary system by some magic means."

"They stubbornly resisted the advice of the inquiry board report for one and a half years but now have been forced to realize the board was right."

Mr. Smith said he's remained silent on hospital insurance for one and a half years to give the new government a chance.

"But the period of probation is over."

He said the Soeds reminded him of Sir Walter Scott's lines: "O what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive."

Churchill Lands At Bermuda For Momentous Conference

EISENHOWER VETOES TALK ON RED CHINA

No Bermuda Parley On Entry Into UN

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, on the eve of the Big Three conference in Bermuda, said today the question of admitting Red China to the United Nations is not a question open to negotiation with anybody at the present time.

Mr. Eisenhower, at his news conference, likewise refused to make any commitment on whether the United States regards the latest Russian note as a suitable basis for a Big Four meeting with the Soviets.

He said there are points which need study and if his government feels indispensable conditions are met it will agree to the meeting which it has sought for many months.

NO WARFRONTS CUT

Mr. Eisenhower pledged that any cuts in American troop strength made possible through economies would not affect units closest to hostile positions. He said such a reduction of American troops could only be attained when political considerations make them possible.

The president was asked whether the entry of Communist China into the United Nations "would be a subject for negotiation at the Bermuda meeting" with British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and French Premier Joseph Laniel.

The president replied that he and his associates agree that under present circumstances that question is not open to negotiation with anybody.

BASIS OF AGREEMENT

The president's firm reply vetoed the prospect of any action on Red China, either its entry to the U.N. or diplomatic recognition, in his discussions with Churchill.

The president said he looked toward the Bermuda meeting as an opportunity to prevent misunderstandings by reaching positive and co-operative basis of agreement wherever possible. He said the meeting would seek to co-ordinate Allied actions on a fair basis and to avoid clashes.

Unity Among Nations Only Hope, Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, backing up State Secretary Dulles' blast at Senator Joseph McCarthy, Rep. Wis., declared today that unity among free nations "is our only hope for survival."

Like Dulles, Eisenhower did not mention McCarthy by name. But the president told a press conference he is "in full accord with the statements made Tuesday by Secretary Dulles."

Dulles had asserted that criticism such as that fired by McCarthy attacks the very heart of United States foreign policy. Eisenhower had anticipated questioning about the matter and announced he had prepared his views in writing because, he said, they would be the only words he would have to say on the subject.

SHARP ISSUES

The president also took sharp issue with McCarthy on another subject—repeating that he believes the Communist in government issue will be out of the picture by the time the congressional elections occur next year.

Red Radio Charges Dulles With Lying

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today accused State Secretary Dulles of the United States of lying when he described Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania as "captives" of the Soviet Union.

Commentator Leontyev asserted Dulles was "not telling the truth and knows it" when he told a House of Representatives committee Monday that "the Baltic republics were seized by the Soviet Union."

By such a statement, Leontyev declared, Dulles violated the United Nations charter and U.S. obligations to a country with which it has diplomatic relations.

His Biggest Triumph Ahead?

Still hale and hearty despite his 79 years, Prime Minister Churchill arrived in Bermuda today for Big Three conference. He is shown above walking with his grandson, four-year-old Nicholas Soames, just prior to leaving Britain. With many great services behind him, the famous old man is said to believe that the current conference may be the key to his crowning ambition—that of building a real peace with Russia. (SNS photo.)

Million Britons Walk Off Jobs in Biggest Labor Tie-Up in 27 Years

LONDON (AP)—More than 1,000,000 engineering workers today closed British auto and aircraft factories, shipyards and machine shops in a 24-hour token strike for more pay.

It was Britain's biggest labor tie-up since the general strike of 1926.

From London to Glasgow and Belfast the hum of machinery ceased. Work benches were deserted.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, an organization with 39 affiliates, called the "show of strength" walkout in support of a demand for a 15-per-cent wage increase.

Industries involved estimated the production loss would reach £10,000,000.

Pickets guarded the gates of factories throughout the country as strikers gathered for mass meetings and protest marches, but there were no reports of disorders.

All public services operated normally. Government plants such as ordnance factories and power stations also were exempt.

Workers affected included fitters, boilermakers, pattern makers, electricians, foundrymen, cooper smiths, structural steel workers and tens of thousands of semi-skilled and unskilled categories.

Originally the confederation planned to pull out 2,000,000 workers. However, individual local unions were given an option of coming out or staying on the job.

By mid-day it was estimated that at least 60 per cent of the 2,000,000 had observed the strike call.

NO RIFF-RAFF, ROOM RATE 30c

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A hotel on Buffalo's Lake Erie waterfront has boosted its rates "to keep out the riff-raff."

The increase: From 25 to 30 cents a night.

European Defense Depends on Outcome

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived from London today for a Big Three conference which Anglo-American diplomatic quarters believe may make or break the European defense community.

The 79-year-old prime minister's big silver stratoscoper Canopus came down from an overcast into a sunny Bermuda after flying through an Atlantic gale on its way from Gander, Newfoundland.

Troops of the crack British Royal Welch Fusiliers and air force and navy men of the United States provided a guard of honor at the airport when the plane landed at 9:31 PST.

Crowd of 400 Welcomes Winnie

Bermuda's governor, Lt.-Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, and a crowd of about 400 welcomed Churchill when he stepped from his plane—the same one that brought Queen Elizabeth to Bermuda last week.

The crowd's greeting was warm but not so enthusiastic as that with which the Queen was greeted.

Churchill was first out of the plane, looking well. He wore a grey business suit with a bow tie. He carried his hat and walking stick. Next came Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, wearing a blue suit and his customary black Homburg hat.

The hale and hearty appearance of the prime minister was noted, despite his recent illness and the rough passage which delayed his plane about 90 minutes.

After inspecting the guard of honor Churchill was driven to the Mid-Ocean Club, where the conference will be held, in the governor's black Humber automobile at the head of a motorcade.

Gander Crowd Cheers PM's V-for-Victory Salutation

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—The stratoscoper carrying Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill to the Big Three talks at Bermuda took off from Gander airport at 8:55 a.m. today.

The plane paused here about an hour for refueling.

A few minutes before the big airliner taxied out to the runway Sir Winston made a brief appearance.

Puffing the omnipresent cigar, he stood in the plane's doorway and waved to a crowd of about 200 airport workers and passengers from other aircraft.

The crowd cheered as Churchill made the familiar V sign.

"I haven't seen you for 19 years," he said. "Best of luck for the next 10."

His last visit here was on one of several wartime Atlantic crossings to confer with the late President Roosevelt.

The crowd cheered again. Some shouted: "Congratulations on your birthday." Sir Winston was 79 Monday.

Then he turned and went back inside the plane. The door was closed and the aircraft headed out to the runway.

Others of the 28-member British delegation, including Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and atomic adviser Lord Cherwell, remained aboard the plane.

Parks Board; Yes or No

New Civic Election Issue Has Interesting History

Could Victoria get better parks and more playgrounds for its children if it had an elected parks board to direct development? This is a question of great concern, which has been injected into the civic election campaign. Times City Hall reporter Dave Stock was assigned to dig out the pros and cons of the issue. Following is the first in a series of articles dealing with it.

Today, no one seems to know why the board came to a sudden end, but records reveal Victoria was the exception to the rule in disbanding its parks board. Elsewhere, once in operation, boards have been maintained.

The parks board system of governing parks and promoting recreation now is employed in a majority of Canadian and U.S. cities of consequential size. Vancouver has had a parks board since 1888 and since 1929 it's been an elected board of seven members. Seattle has a parks board which is filled by appointment.

New Westminster has had a

There's no mystery about what a park board does. It would be required to plan policy for development and maintenance of parks, boulevards, beaches and playgrounds and promotion of recreation—exactly what the present city parks committee does.

Proponents of the scheme advance many arguments why a parks board might be expected to act more efficiently.

The big reason they give is that people who would stand for election to a parks board would be people with definite interests in that line, whereas aldermen generally have a multiplicity of interests and sometimes treat park committee work merely as another job that goes with being a councillor.

Canada to Study 'Secret' U.S. Information Before Protesting

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian officials prepared today to make a full study of the "hitherto secret" information released in Washington Tuesday by the Senate Internal Security Sub-Committee.

They declined comment on it, however, until they determined whether the information, which the committee said came from former Soviet cipher clerk Igor Gouzenko was classified here.

If it was classified by the Canadian government then this country might make its second protest to Washington in less than a month against the committee's action.

A preliminary examination indicated that the information the committee headed by Sen. William E. Jenner has so far produced was part of the record in the report of the Royal Commission which investigated Soviet spy activities in 1946. (See also story Page 16.)

The 733-page report could be bought by anyone from the Queen's printer here for $1.

Gouzenko testified in 1945 that a Canadian Communist agent had recruited Dr. Arthur Steinberg, a navy research scientist for the Russian military intelligence in Washington.

The commission's report on the web of Communist spying in Canada did not connect either Dr. Boyer or Steinberg with the delivery to Russia of details of the proximity fuse.

However, the commission reported that "one of the agents" revealed by the commission "had the wiring diagram of this fuse." It also reported that Dr. Allan Nunn May, had made a brief report on the proximity fuse.

GOUZENKO WANTED BY U.S. TO UNCOVER NEW SPY RING

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman William Jenner (Rep., Ind.) said today one reason the Senate internal security sub-committee wants to question Igor Gouzenko is to find out whether he has information that might uncover a new spy ring in the U.S. government.

The sub-committee deferred until later in the day a decision on what further steps, if any, to take in its efforts to interview Gouzenko, a former Soviet code clerk in Ottawa who tipped Canadian authorities in 1945 to a Soviet espionage network.

There were some indications the group would not press for an interview with Gouzenko in view of his reported objections. Jenner said Tuesday: "I don't want him to testify if he feels it will endanger him and his family."

U.K. Tells Russia To Accept U.S. Atrocity Challenge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(UP)—Britain told the Communists today that if they want definite proof of American charges of Korean atrocities, they need only accept the United States challenge to permit an impartial investigation in Korea and China.

British delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb told United Nations-General Assembly again that according to information reaching London, "there appears to be no doubt that atrocities against UN troops and Korean civilians have been committed."

After advising the Communists to accept the American challenge, Jebb, in the same "gloves-off" manner used by Australian Ambassador Sir Percy Spender Tuesday, denounced Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky for saying that Britain was responsible for the Second World War and had sought before the war to isolate Russia so that Germany could attack it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Army engineers have developed a camera which can take pictures inside a small hole deep in the ground.

Engineers and others can make good use of such underground observation—in planning big construction projects, locating leaks inside pipelines and spotting underground ore formations.

Officials said the camera might even be adapted for taking picture of tissues inside the human body.

It was feared that repercussions might be felt at Continental Can firms in Toronto and the American Can Company in Vancouver, since they are affiliated with the CIO union.

Doukhobors Had No Concessions, Lecturer Claims

Service Exemption Applies to All

A widespread belief that members of the Doukhobor sect were brought to Canada in 1899 under special consideration and were given special concessions by the federal government is completely erroneous, news editor Lance Whittaker of the Victoria Daily Times told the Victoria Ministerial Association at its regular luncheon meeting today.

"Even the story that sect members were given a special undertaking that they would be exempt from bearing arms is untrue," Mr. Whittaker said.

The newsman quoted a letter from Justice Minister Stuart Carson, which noted that the agreement between the Doukhobors and the federal government contained the following provisions and no more:

(1) Those responsible for the organization of the emigration to receive the usual bonus of $5 per adult, children counting half.

(2) A further grant of $1.50 for each man, woman and child settled, towards organization and transportation expenses.

(3) The use of immigration halls in Manitoba and the Northwest granted during the winter months.

USUAL PROVISIONS

The speaker pointed out that these were the usual provisions granted to any group of immigrants coming to Canada.

"The Doukhobors had assurance of exemption from military service only under the ordinary statutes, which apply to any Canadian," Mr. Whittaker said.

It is provided by law that exemption from military service shall be granted to conscientious objectors by reason of religious conviction, provided that other service of national importance may be required of such people. The Doukhobors asked no further concession and were granted none.

Mr. Whittaker told his audience that the 7,361 Doukhobors who entered the country between January and June, 1899, had grown to nearly 23,000 by natural increase. Of these, over 21,000 had been more or less assimilated and lived peaceably within the framework of Canadian laws.

The Sons of Freedom, the speaker pointed out, comprise a small group of militant religious zealots.

He felt that a long-range government policy, based upon the recommendations of the Doukhobor Research Committee, could bring a solution within 10 to 15 years.

Scott Summons Sense of Humor To Meet Loss of Suit to City

W. A. Scott, aldermanic candidate in the forthcoming civic election, must pay a $13 garage can bill plus $12 costs and witness fees, Magistrate H. C. Hall ruled in small court Monday.

The charge arose out of a suit against Mr. Scott by the city.

Mr. Scott claimed he ordered two garbage cans, but four cans were delivered. He produced a receipt for the first two cans.

The court ruled that a woman tenant at Mr. Scott's house received delivery of the second pair of garbage cans, and therefore, as his agent, accepted them.

Mr. Scott's nomination papers were filed after the court case. They had been held up pending outcome of the case, as the Municipal Elections Act states a candidate for municipal office must have no outstanding accounts in the municipality in which he is seeking office.

Establishment strength of the RCAF when created in 1924 was 68 officers and 307 airmen.

SMALL START

Said Mr. Scott: "All I can do sense of humor to accept the now, I suppose, is rely on my court's verdict."

Change in Agenda

THE AGENDA BUT HARDLY the real contents of the Bermuda conference, opening this week, has been changed by an extraordinary reversal of Russian tactics.

Only a fortnight ago Russia rejected any thought of conferring with the West on the future of Germany. As always, the refusal was "rapped up in a cumbersome bundle of dialectics. Russia would confer, through its foreign minister, provided that the West first agreed to liquidate its whole defense system in Europe. Naturally, those conditions were refused in London, Washington and Paris. Now they are completely withdrawn. Russia is ready to confer with no advance reservations.

The meaning of this about-turn is beyond the sight of the outside world. It is known only to the Kremlin and may be the result of disagreements within the Russian Government itself. The West can only consider the evidence it has, the latest Russian note. It must decide at Bermuda to accept or reject it.

Actually, the decision seems to have been made already. As Mr. Eden has clearly indicated in the British Parliament, the West will send its foreign ministers, probably to Berlin, for a meeting with the foreign minister of Russia.

This was an easy decision for Britain. Since last spring Sir Winston Churchill has been working ceaselessly for a chance to meet the Russians face to face. The decision was not so easy for the United States, which sees a serious danger in the projected meeting—the danger that the Russians will trap the West into another fruitless wrangle for propaganda purposes and use it to set the Western Allies quarrelling among themselves.

That, indeed, may be the only purpose of the latest Russian demarche. But the United States would risk an even greater danger if it broke with its Allies and refused to confer with Russia. It would then appear as the only obstacle to a world settlement.

Therefore, the undoubted dangers of a conference must be risked. The United States, however, obviously has little or no hope of tangible result. It knows that Russia is caught in its own calculations of power, the only calculations it understands, and, without a fundamental change in its policy, cannot permit the establishment of an independent, unified Germany on its western flank, even an unarmed Germany, lest the germs of freedom thus planted spread throughout the satellite empire.

Sir Winston, on the other hand—though he probably understands these things better than any other living man, has no illusions about Russia and was the first to see its menace—evidently regards the proposed foreign ministers' conference as a preliminary step only, an opening wedge. He still clings, despite all discouragement, to the original belief of his famous speech last May.

That is to say, he knows that Russia's real policy cannot be suddenly reversed, however its superficial tactics may change from day to day. But he believes that if he and Mr. Eisenhower could confront Mr. Malenkov in person they could begin, at least, to persuade him that the present race of power, if continued, can lead only to a general suicide, that the West has no thought of attacking Russia and only desires peace.

It would be far too optimistic to assume at the moment that a foreign ministers' conference will lead to something more decisive. The important thing is that the grand alliance remains in agreement on this conference. Its agreement on this and other problems should be greatly strengthened at Bermuda. As the latest Russian note shows, that kind of agreement is the only factor which has the slightest influence on Russia's policy.

The Friends of Mr. Gunderson

THE SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY OF Victoria may be excused for feeling angry about its recent by-election disaster, which it so richly earned. Its poor sportsmanship, its charges of "collusion" between Liberals and Socialists—a charge directed, of course, against the voters themselves—also may be overlooked in these days of disillusionment, following a long period of euphoria. But it is difficult to understand what the Social Credit party means when it demands the retention of Mr. Gunderson's services in the Government.

There is only one constitutional means by which Mr. Gunderson can remain in the Government—he must find a seat in the Legislature. He could not find it in Victoria. He is entitled to look elsewhere. If that is what his local supporters mean they should say so.

Mr. Percy Hawkins, secretary-manager and sixth vice-president of the Social Credit League, says only that "We are not concerned with how he (Mr. Gunderson) is kept. Our motive was to go on record to insist that he be kept. I don't care to enlarge on it any more."

That is small help to Mr. Bennett. He cannot over-ride the Constitution and somehow smuggle into his cabinet a member twice repudiated by the voters. Nor is it to be supposed that he has any thought of such procedure. Mr. Gunderson can be appointed to an official position in the civil service if Mr. Bennett desires, he can be hired as an expert like other experts. But he cannot continue to sit in the Cabinet constitutionally any longer unless he clearly indicates that he will soon seek election in one constituency or another.

The Treasury cannot remain under the control of an unelected man without making nonsense of the Constitution and the parliamentary system. The local Social Credit organization can pass what resolutions and make what charges it chooses against its opponents, but Mr. Bennett cannot evade the clear decision before him.

Mr. Gouzenko's Decision

THIS NEWSPAPER IS ABLE TO restrain its enthusiasm for the latest word emanating from the headquarters of Mr. Igor Gouzenko, the most publicized recluse in this country. In a copyrighted newspaper story, under his own byline, Mr. Gouzenko has announced that he does not wish to talk to the U.S. security subcommittee. With becoming (if belated) discretion, he says: "I choose safety."

Mr. Gouzenko arrives at this decision after doing almost incalculable harm to the nation which has given him sanctuary. He has impugned the credibility of Canada's secretary of state by telling a Chicago reporter that Mr. Pearson was "ill-advised" in his initial House of Commons statement on the affair. He has endangered the harmonious relations between the U.S. and Canada by propelling himself into a discussion of which he can have no direct knowledge and only vicarious concern. He has appeared almost daily in headlines when the aim of his protectors is to preserve and protect his anonymity.

If anything, Gouzenko owes an apology to the Canadian government. We sincerely trust that he has learned something from this experience, and will in future co-operate with those who are spending both time and money in an effort to ensure him a safe life in this country.

Party Politics and City Hall

THREE MAYORALTY CANDIDATES on Monday night discussed the issue of party politics at the City Hall.

The question is one that should be ventilated. In certain cities on this continent and in Britain, party affiliation is a definite feature of civic elections. There is nothing immoral or improper about it.

There are, however, weaknesses in the injection of partisan consideration at the municipal level. Alderman Percy B. Scurrell emphasized one of them. An elected city representative closely wed to a party, he said, faced the possibility that party interest would be opposed to city interest. To avoid such dangers, he declared himself unalterably opposed to the introduction of party politics into the City Hall.

Alderman Scurrell made his point perfectly clear. There were no grounds for misunderstanding. Nor was there in Mr. Charles Hunt's announcement that he had no party affiliations.

Yet in the face of that argument, Alderman Don Smith attempted to pervert the question with the statement:

"We all support a political party—this is a democracy. If the other candidates are ashamed of the party they voted for in the provincial elections, it's too bad."

Obviously the young man did not attempt to meet the case Alderman Scurrell had raised. Such evasive tactics so cheaply applied do not suggest the dignified, forthright attitude Victoria should expect from a person aspiring to be mayor.

Always a String Attached

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

DECEMBER, is it? December is not what it was. Under the Julian calendar, December had only 30 days. I am not sure why. Possibly Caesar thought he could avoid New Year's Eve by this dodge. Many of us wish we could. But it isn't that easy. Incidentally, July (Caesar's own month) once had 35 days. And August, which up till then was called something else, I forget what, was boosted from 30 to 31 by Augustus Caesar, not Augustus John. One day is as much fun as another to Augustus John.

How very confusing the older calendars must have been:

Thirty days hath December,
The rest I can't remember
Except July with 36.
We are in an awful fix.

BUT just because it is December, you needn't think you can trap me into discussing Christmas presents. I propose to talk about wedding presents instead. About selling them, I mean, not giving them. Selling them after somebody gave them to you at your wedding. The subject came up in this way: A friend of ours was talking about useful presents at Christmas, and how she is now old enough to desire them. So is her sister. Her sister wants one of those tick-patch boards, with a cloth surface on one side, while our friend wants a pop-up toaster above all else.

WE said we don't need a pop-up toaster, because our stove makes better toast than any pop-up could ever pop. Indeed, when we got our present stove, we sold our pop-up toaster, even though it had been a wedding present, shame on us. Shame indeed. Yet the sale of it was intimately connected with matrimony, since we used the proceeds to pay for the punch at the twins' christening. It was a good punch, too. A proper pop-up punch.

I HAVE never been very clear about the ethics of disposing of wedding presents. My instinct is all against doing it at all. Yet there are cases when it is necessary, or does more good than not doing it. There are also cases when it becomes a huge private joke. In spite of the naughtiness, or because of it. It was naughty of my cousin Sybil to take a costly but hideous comfort back to the shop it came from. But it was worse than naughty to exchange it, not for a memorable present of equal value, but for a whole collection of piffing little household essentials, including an umbrella. Things that no longer reminded her of the donor. I call that rather dull.

BONES OF CONTENTION

May I comment briefly on the letter of Mr. R. E. Robinson who in your issue of Saturday, November 28, assures us that scientists depending upon bones found in a certain gravel pit have been badly deceived, and that only the biblical record of creation tells the true story?

First I would point out that only the lower jaw bone of the Piltdown find comes into the question. The skull itself is still recognized as extremely antiquated and, together with thousands of other like finds, not only proves man's antiquity but his close relationship with all other mammalian types of life and his ascent with them from a common ancestor.

If Mr. Robinson is so sure the bible record of creation is the only true one, will he inform us as to which of the two conflicting and contradictory stories of Gen. I and its opposite of Gen. II is the true one? And as to the age of the earth to which your correspondent refers, if the biblical record of less than 6,000 years is to be accepted, how account for the coal and oil found now under a mile deep of ice, which are known to be purely natural products and known to be at least a billion years old?

Might I just remind Mr. Robinson that just last year even the Pope admitted the Universe was at least five BILLIONS of years old.

THE RIGHT TO COMPLAIN

The editorial which you had the temerity to publish in your issue of Nov. 24th under the heading "Right to Know" is insulting to the intelligence of your readers.

Smoke screen politics and policies are becoming alarmingly fashionable, this practice was established by the dictators to accuse their opponents of acts of which they themselves alone were guilty, on the principle of "attack being the best defensive weapon." Agreed, the question of rights is one of prime importance to many individuals and of great significance to the community.

The champion of rights and liberty was ever revered and respected, but we must not forget for one moment that right and liberty are indivisible, and therefore are inseparable and that they are common property to us and to the other fellow alike. Is it possible therefore to maintain the Right to Know, and deny to the other fellow the right to Freedom of thought, speech, and the written word?

Can the local monopolistic press truthfully state their impartial acceptance for publication alike of anti-Social and pro-social thought, speech, and the written word submitted to them during the recent by-election? To many thinking people, after due consideration, the reverse appears true as evidenced by the mass of verbose and often hysterical charges made against the elected government of British Columbia, which have appeared from time to time in your columns.

The local press has descended to the use of every trick of phraseology and timing in order to discredit our constitutionally elected Government, and to present the fairest possible face of the dictatorial and arrogant party which was rejected by the electorate, in no uncertain manner, at the last general election.

My personal desire is to see consistently fair play to all contestants. Established custom is to maintain a truce, conceded by all parties, to all on election eve and election day. A breach of that truce is distasteful to most people. The publication of anti-Social Credit propaganda on election day by the Victoria Daily Times was a gross breach of that truce and was also a denial of the right to reply before the votes were cast.

Could that by any chance have been your intention? You have my full permission to publish this letter without censorship, in full, every single word of it, and without further reference to me, be it also noted that I am not a member of any political party.

WOMEN ATHLETES

I noticed you had a picture of Fanny Blankers Koen in your Sunday magazine section and am wondering how you got it.

My daughter met her last year at Helsinki and liked her, in fact they were photographed together—yes, F. B. K. was advised by her doctor to give up athletics and in spite of that she went in for one event and broke down.

Women should not continue athletics after a certain age, especially married ones with children. They can't stand it the same as a man. The British Empire Games are taking place next year and I want to see Canada beat the U.S.A. I would like to pay tribute to Archie McKinnon and Bruce Humber for their excellent work in the past.

UNWHOLESOME

Prominent headlines on the Times church page tell us that in Guadalupe, the seals groan because they are plagued by chronic ulcers.

Fear of disease is deliberately getting instilled into people, under the guise of teaching health and science.

These groans and animals' chronic ulcers are pumped into the human mentality for the same ulterior motive that erected in Brussels long ago a gigantic group of statues representing a man and his children in agonized terror, tightly coiled about and gripped by snakes, big and little. (The Laocoon).

Erected at the highest point of the magnificent Avenue Louise where it enters the Bois, I used to wonder if nearby residents liked these snakes for neighbors, and to what extent these vipers succeeded in dampening down potential thought transcendence, latent in the glorious westward Avenue Louise vista at sunset.

The church page disobeys the biblical injunction to humanity, to think of things that are good and wholesome. (I've forgotten the exact biblical words).

WITH SOFTER SEATS Kitchener-Waterloo Record

For several days now, former Iranian Premier Mossadeq has been on trial in Tehran before a court-martial. He is charged with illegally resisting the Shah's order to step down as premier last summer.

We have tried desperately to understand this whole affair, and particularly the details of the defense Mossadeq is making. So far, unluckily, all we have been able to come up with is this:

Mossadeq does not believe the military court has jurisdiction over his case at all. But he wants the trial to keep going because the courtroom is warmer than his jail cell.

PUZZLED PARENTS Windsor Daily Star

One objection to some modern homework is many questions resemble puzzles rather than questions. The parent, or child, might be able to provide the answer if questions could be understood. These puzzles might be excused in that they teach a child to think, but that also would apply to mechanical or other puzzles purchased at a dime store. A man or woman, after a hard and trying day, might be glad to help Junior. But to expect them to work puzzles is a bit too much.

BETTER WAYS Halifax Chronicle-Herald

In an earlier generation, certainly, it was proverbial that youth was the age of idealism, and the universities were full of young men dreaming dreams of a better, and a finer world, young men who were fiercely and intolerantly critical of the established order, with its manifest inequities and its maltreatment of the gift of life. Admittedly the criticism was immature, admittedly also it was founded on insufficient information, but it was sincere and it was idealistic, two features which contrast pleasantly with the cynical resignation and selfishness which goes with conformity and the craving for security.

DESTROYING LIBERTY Fort William Times-Journal

The world has been looking to the United States as the bastion of personal liberty, in days when communism seeks to take it away. It is ironic that one of the most advanced political purposes, is helping to destroy the personal liberty that has made the United States the great nation it is.

MISSING MYTHS Regina Leader-Post

Discovered in 1911-1913, the Piltdown man, as he was named, sent hundreds of scientists home to their studies to sit and puzzle their own skulls about him. The Piltdown man became one of those Sunday Supplement things, as much a standby as Peaches Browning, the Yellow Peril and the Splitting of the Atom. He also outbalanced Sea Monsters Caddy and Loch Ness for week-end reading.

Now he's been proven a fake. This shaking of old beliefs has got to stop. There has been altogether too much fooling about with old bones, old graves, old legends. A gullible people, needing their old myths to cling to, needing their Noah's Ark, their Jonah's Whale, their Robin Hood, have a right to annoyance.

Joe Doakes needs his hoax.

PAID IN FULL Lethbridge Herald

A lot of people seem to think that, if the Government pays, we can all get something for nothing. The truth is that the people pay, and most of the paying is done through taxation. When we demand more from governments and vote them into power we may expect that we'll go right on paying for it through more and more taxes.

HOLLOW MEN Edmonton Journal

There is an old saying that a party in power begins to lose support the day after it is elected. The process may be happening faster than usual in British Columbia. Certainly, the confident prophecies of nation-wide victory which were made by so many Social Credit orators after the June vote, and which have since been reiterated, are beginning to sound hollow.

LONG-PLAYING RECORDS Winnipeg Tribune

Before the session, there were rumors that something would be done to curb the bores, the bumblers and the broken records of the Commons. There was brave talk of limiting speeches and putting a time limit on the Throne Speech debate.

These rumors are being proved groundless. M.P.s are showing all the self-discipline of uncorrupted balloons. Not the slightest attempt is being made to end time wasting and get on with the nation's business.

ASKING TOO MUCH Toronto Globe and Mail

As an example of unthinking selfishness, it would be difficult to beat the behavior of a crowd at Gander Airport, when the Royal plane arrived at the end of the first leg of its trip to Jamaica. The people are reported to have shouted and yelled: "It's time to get up!" and "We want the Queen!" until they awakened Her Majesty and induced her to dress and make an appearance at about 3 o'clock in the morning of a day to be filled with engagements until late at night.

It was bad manners on the part of the crowd, but it was also shamefully bad management on the part of the Canadian Government authorities, who did not ensure the Queen and the Royal party a peaceful rest.

MORE TO LEARN
Man will always have more to learn than he has acquired, and I reject entirely the view of some scientists that, because they can see no evidence of a personal Creator, He does not exist. —Sir Robert Bruce Lockhart

Forgetting the Principle

My erudite friends tell me not to worry about the origin of the saying that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton. They tell me to list it among the famous quotations that were never said.

"It's just one of those things that sound good in certain company," they explain. "You don't do a critical analysis on items like that any more than you do on the voice of the schoolboy rallying the ranks with 'Play up, play up, and play the game.'"

I've heard bad elocutionists ham up the "voice of the schoolboy" until I'm ready to lay it away with a lot of other good stuff spoiled by poor presentation. And I make my own reservations on the playing fields of Eton piece on grounds of snootiness.

Still I'll go along with the play-the-game idea even if it does sound corny. I think a lot of youngsters in organized sport here could stand a cob or two of it themselves.

They might mix a little of it with their raw meat before the next Howard Russell Cup rugby series.

Oak Bay High regained that trophy from Victoria High on Monday. They won hands down with a better team. They played better rugby and they would have been victors even without the unnecessary roughness some players on both sides displayed.

I never met Howard Russell, but I do know several of his friends. I presume the cup was provided to stimulate the kind of competition Howard Russell would have approved.

NOT THE SPIRIT

If those of his friends whom I know reflect the character of the man, Howard Russell would not have encouraged flying fists, excessive use of knees and pretty careless footwork on bodies in the loose scrums.

Please don't get the idea that I think rugby players should take mid-Victorian drawing room manners with them onto the field. That isn't for rugby and rugby isn't for that. It's a rugged body contact sport where a man hands out the bumps generously and takes them the same way.

If you put your heart into the game you come out of it with lumps, bruises and occasionally a little spilled blood. And you can do all that by playing hard, and fair. Your opponents will emerge the same way, if it's a robust game.

But when you start to work off petty grudges with fists and knees in a pile-up, you're not playing rugby. You're not adding any glory to your school. You're not reflecting any credit on your coaches. You're not measuring up to the sportsmanship of your better teammates. You're not even engaging in a good, healthy fight—if you figure that's the way to settle a grievance.

And above all that, you're not getting out of the game what the game is supposed to give you.

Syd Gaunt, who handled the match on Monday, didn't send any of the boys off the field. He didn't because he figured that would hurt school reputations. But he had to warn several. And he was a little sad about the whole thing. The play started to go down when the unnecessary roughness crept in. The boys began to forget their rugby—which is a melancholy thing to Syd.

RAZOR-EDGE RIVALRY

Let's recognize a few things about this Victoria-Oak Bay High series. Excitement runs high. Tension builds up. Rivalry is keen as a razor's edge. Under those conditions some of the high-geared competitors may be inclined to lose their heads and their tempers. When they do, they lose the whole principle of the game and the series. They forget the sportsmanship the event is supposed to stimulate on a high competitive level.

If it's a choice between that or the play-up spirit, I'll take the latter, even with the corn. The boys had better take it, too, or there may not be a Howard Russell Cup series. There'd be no sense in continuing it if the spirit it stands for were ploughed under.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

On Doctors' Charges

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

In many cases today, ill-feeling for doctors comes when, after an operation, the patient is staggered by finding on his hospital bills several large charges about which he had not been warned, and which are not covered by his insurance policy.

It is a good patient who says, "Doctor, what will this operation cost me? I want to be sure that I have enough money in the bank before I start having the work done."

A wealthy man may say, "Since in the past, I have had some unpleasant experiences with doctor's bills, I want now to know what the charge is going to be; then there will be no unpleasantness, either for me or for you."

But, many a time when I have asked a surgeon to set the fee for a patient of mine, he has demurred, saying that until he has finished his work, he won't know how much time has had to be spent. For instance, instead of finding an expected diseased appendix, he may find a cancer of the colon, and then he may have to do two or three operations in order to get the patient well.

FRANKNESS HELPED

A couple of months ago, shortly before my good friend Dr. Frank Lahey of Boston died, I had the rare privilege of having a long chat with him. I was much interested when he told me that for some time at his big clinic, he had been making a practice of telling the patients not only what their surgical fee was going to be, but also, what all other expenses of hospitalization, etc., were likely to be: costs of extra nursing care, meals for the nurses; the fee for the anesthetist, and the charges for the operating room, for drugs, for laboratory tests, and perhaps for a transfusion. As he said, this frankness at the start had made for much better relations between the patients and the clinic.

When I asked Dr. Lahey about the surgeon's problem of not knowing always how much work he would have to do, he said, "Why worry about that? When you are doing thousands of operations in a year it all averages up; in some cases you will do less work than you expected and in other cases you will do more." I think Dr. Lahey's plan so good that I wish all surgeons would now study it. Certainly, no person going in for an operation can be blamed for wanting to know approximately what his total cost will be.

Sometimes, I imagine, a surgeon thinks somewhat as follows: "Here is a man worth a million. He has a cancer of the bowel. If I can get it all out I will save his life. For that a charge of $5,000 or $10,000 is really too little. If he had to hire a distinguished lawyer to save his business from dire disaster or him from a long jail sentence he would gladly pay much more than that." Perhaps the surgeon charges $15,000 and the wealthy man is angered. I have heard such men say, "When that operation is done for one of my laborers at the plant we pay $150." Perhaps, but that laborer and his family will not demand so much of the surgeon's time and attention as the wealthy man will.

$10,000 MERE NOTHING

If I myself had a cancer of the colon and believed that some particular surgeon with unusual skill could get it all out for me while a man with only average skill could not get it out, I would be willing to give the first man all the money I have to do the job. Once, years ago, I took care of a millionaire with a cancer of his stomach. His good general surgeon at home had opened him and closed the abdomen again, saying that in his opinion the thing was inoperable. Because I had reasons to believe that it might still be operable, I asked one of America's greatest gastric surgeons to see what he could do. He got the thing all out, and later charged the man $10,000. This, I felt was a mere nothing. If I had been the patient I would have insisted on giving the surgeon much more than that. What is the use of money to a man if, in six months, he is going to die of cancer?

Actually, I think today, in most places, and for most patients in the middle or upper brackets of income, the fees for medical and surgical service are fairly uniform. If the patient is in a lower bracket he pays much less, and if he is poor or hard-up he will pay nothing. Probably a third of the patients who go through a big clinic never get back on their financial feet well enough so that they can or will ever pay their bill. Hence it is that when a wealthy man pays a bit more for his operation he is helping some poor person much in need of medical care.

4 Drowned As Car Goes Through Ice

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (BUP)—Four persons were drowned Tuesday when their car crashed through ice on Lac la Crosse, 165 miles northwest of here.

The RCMP said Louis Salonski, driver of the car, was the only one to escape when it dropped through the ice into 20 feet of water. Salonski was taking a short cut across the frozen lake when the accident occurred.

The victims were: Mrs. J. Derocher, 53, of Ile-a-la-Croix; Mrs. Florence Kegan, 24, also of Ile-a-la-Croix; Georgiana Derocher, 16, of Green Lake, and Alex Malbouf, 40, of Beauval.

STEP UP BABIES FIGHT

EDMONTON (BUP)—Pest control officers were ordered today to step up a battle against rabies, which has infected a record number of wild animals in Alberta this year.

Dr. E. E. Ballantyne, chairman of the central rabies control committee, issued orders for a re-vaccination of all dogs in northern Alberta after two new cases were reported.

The latest cases were those of a dog at Smoke Lake, and a coyote near Colinton, killed as it attacked a girl.

HOPE FOR PLANE DIMS

EDMONTON (CP)—Hope grew dimmer today for the lives of three occupants of a plane missing for 10 days in northwestern Alberta. Temperature in the search area dipped to the zero-mark Tuesday night.

The air search is being continued with as many as 10 RCAF planes and several civilian aircraft expected to cover again territory about 125 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The single-engine aircraft disappeared November 22 on a 275-mile flight from Grande Prairie to Edmonton. It carried Pilot Gordon McDonald and polo player Lloyd Williams, of Edmonton, and Dr. Don Wilson of Grande Prairie.

The RCMP Tuesday investigated reports of marks on lake ice 50 miles northwest of here, which looked from the air like aircraft wheel tracks. However, the RCMP said the marks were made on the lake ice by the thawing and freezing of water.

TWO YEAR SENTENCE

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Maurice Lapointe, 32, of Quebec City, started a two-year penitentiary term today after pleading guilty to breaking into two Winnipeg garages and stealing $10 from each.

TRAPPER MISSING

BISSETT, Man. (BUP)—Unseasonably warm weather today delayed a search for an elderly trapper missing for a month in northern Manitoba's lake and muskeg country.

RCMP said a ground search for trapper Dave Ellis was impossible without a freeze-over, and that northern lakes were not suitable for either pontoon or ski-equipped planes to hunt for him from the air.

SOLDIER TRAFFIC VICTIM

WINNIPEG (CP)—A soldier from the provost corps detachment at Brandon, Pte. Kenneth Dinsdale Smith, 18, died in Deer Lodge Hospital here Tuesday of injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

Pte. Smith was injured November 17 when an army panel-truck in which he was a passenger, struck a soft shoulder and rolled over near Hamiota, Man.

Sinclair to Meet Fishing Experts On Japanese Visit

TOKYO (BUP)—Canadian Fisheries Minister James Sinclair arrived here by plane from India Tuesday night for a 10-day visit in Japan.

Sinclair said he plans to meet Japanese fisheries leaders and inspect their industry here. He said he was especially interested in the attitude of fisheries men to the manner in which the North Pacific Fisheries Convention among Japan, Canada and the United States has been operating.

Delegates of the three countries are scheduled to meet in Washington in January to review the treaty, and some Japanese officials are pressing for revisions in its clauses.

Sinclair attended a meeting of Colombo Plan nations in India.

SKILLINGS for MAYOR

MAYOR WILLING TO SELL ARENA

'If You Don't Want Me, Throw Me Out,'
Claude Harrison Advises City Voters

Mayor Claude Harrison at an election meeting Monday indicated he is in favor of selling the Memorial Arena. The mayor's views on the arena were expressed during a question period after he had given an account of his stewardship, described by him as "an inside story of what occurred in the City Hall during the past two years."

A member of the audience asked him what he planned to do with regard to certain defects in the building.

The mayor replied that while little could be done to rectify past mistakes with regard to the arena, he had not yet finished investigating the problem. Then the mayor added: "I would like to do the same as we did with the grain elevator. You know what I mean."

He did not elaborate. But the grain elevator at Ogden Point, formerly owned by the city, was sold this year for $202,500.

INTERPRETATION

The mayor was nonplussed by the small attendance of some 35 persons at the meeting. He interpreted the apparent lack of interest as meaning the public is satisfied with his efforts.

"I feel that the public is quite satisfied with what I have done for the city," he said. "I have done all that was expected of me."

Mayor Harrison said he entered municipal politics mainly to keep Victoria from getting into bankruptcy.

"I gave up all because I felt you were in a jam," he said. "I never worked so hard in my life. I gave up my legal practice and put all my effort into my work. I never took a holiday to Hawaii like some people."

He added that he never made a cent as mayor and had actually lost income. "If you don't believe me, I'll give you permission to look at my income tax returns," he said.

Then raising his voice the mayor said: "Don't think I'm begging for votes. If you don't want me, throw me out; I don't care. But for goodness sake elect a man who can keep the financial affairs of this city straight."

Stating that the city was getting out of debt, the mayor said he was responsible for leading the city "out of the woods" with regard to the municipal debt. He said when he was first elected as mayor the problem was serious and caused him deep concern.

ELECTED PARKS BOARD

It has been suggested by city parks administrator Herbert Warren and others who have looked into the matter and endorsed the idea that a five-man board would be about right for Victoria, with each commissioner serving five years. The council committee presently concerned with parks has only three members.

Parks boards elsewhere have from three to seven members. In most cases, terms of office are from three to five years, although in Spokane, commissioners are appointed for a 10-year period.

The idea of having reasonably long terms is that members are in office long enough to bring continuity to their work. Too often city council parks committee have been composed of new people every year. By the time they become familiar with park problems, they're off council or shifted to other committees.

Another argument used by those who favor the parks board plan is that while such a body would be interested in planning and promoting the development of parks, aldermanic committees are oftentimes more concerned with keeping down the mill rate and so resort to a policy of merely maintaining parks.

QUESTION OF COST
Opponents to the parks board plan immediately lean on this argument with a gleeful "Ah-ha, so it's going to cost more!" They say the city can't afford extra expense.

Those who favor the board scheme reply that it might cost more but that the city will have more in the long run. They say look at Beacon Hill Park. It was developed in 1889 and re-conditioned during the 1930's but since then has been subject only to maintenance work.

Vancouver's Stanley Park, meanwhile, has been steadily developed and has an ever-growing collection of interesting animals and birds.

And such development needn't fall solely on the city anyway, the parks board advocates say. A board of commissioners, keen and on its toes, could probably interest various organizations in sponsoring different phases of a planned development.

SCPTICAL OPPOSITION

Opponents to the scheme are sceptical about philanthropic organizations paying the bills. They fear once a parks board is set up and in operation it would present its demands to the council and council might be in a position of having to make the payment whether it felt the expense justified or not.

There's some uncertainty on this point. Parks board supporters say council would still have final say in deciding the amount to be appropriated to the board. But others say, "Look what has happened to councils in dealing with school boards. School boards say they need so much money and there's nothing councils can do but scrape the money together and turn it over."

Another argument of opponents is that it's bad to decentralize control. It has been said the city already has too many boards, with its police commission, school board, library board and town planning commission. But then the other side raises the argument again that people who serve on such boards do so without remuneration and because they're interested in the work, and in the final analysis do a far better job than a group of aldermen who are either not particularly interested or have a lot of other things on their minds.

It's an old question and one which might not be settled right away. But at least at this particular election time, it's getting an airing.

Impaired Driver Pays $200 Fine After Collision

Police Continuing Watch on Highways

A fine of $200 and $6.50 court costs were levied on Olaf H. Berg, 2417 Wharf Street, in Colwood court on Tuesday following conviction on a charge of driving while his judgment was impaired.

Berg was involved in a head-on collision Saturday night near Six Mile House on the Island Highway. Five occupants of the other car were injured in the crash.

Also appearing before Magistrate A. I. Thomas were George O. Ludlow, 1937 Taylor, and Gordon G. Jones, HMCS Ontario.

Ludlow paid $35 and $5.50 costs for driving while his license was suspended. His license will be endorsed, and will be held by police pending a report from the motor vehicle superintendent.

Jones failed to submit an accident report when involved in a crash which caused more than $50 damages. He paid $10 and $3.50 costs, and his license was also endorsed.

Colwood RCMP are concentrating on making drivers in that area more conscious of traffic laws and say they will continue to prosecute violators while carrying out spot checks of trucks and private cars.

B.C. Nurses' Body Will Try Again for Bargaining Rights

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the third time in five months Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia is attempting to wrest bargaining rights for 500 Vancouver General Hospital nurses from the Hospital Employees' Federal Union (TLC).

A Labor Relations Board official said Tuesday a vote to determine which organization is the choice of VGH nurses is scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

At present the HEFU represents the nurses in wage negotiations along with all non-professional employees at VGH.

In June the RNA applied for the certification and a vote was taken which gave the HEFU a slight edge. Then RNA asked for and lost another ballot in August.

The new vote will come on the eve of annual wage negotiations between HEFU and the hospital which start next Monday.

UNHAPPY IN OFFICE, SO—

Jebb's Son Digs Kitimat Ditches

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP)—Young members of prominent British families have rolled up their sleeves at the Aluminum Company of Canada's huge development here and seem to thrive on the hard work.

Miles Gladwyn Jebb, 23, now a $1.50-an-hour laborer, was educated at Eton and Oxford and is the son of Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Britain's new ambassador to France. He was a lieutenant in the Welsh Guards.

Miles is trying to earn enough to pay for a tour of North America as the dollar allowance granted by the British government is insufficient. He has shared a tent with several backwoods boys, washed his own clothes, lined up at the canteen and dug ditches.

At first he was placed in the camp office, but he insisted he did not want to be pampered. Next day he was digging ditches.

When Adrian Allenby, grandson of Field Marshal Lord Allenby, arrived he was put to sweeping out the carpenter's shop. But it meant no work.

Court Action Against B.C. Firm Promoting Cuba Isle

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Service Realty Company, promoting a 50,000-acre tropical island development in Cuba, Tuesday was charged under the Security Frauds Prevention Act. Vancouverites have invested $300,000 in the project.

The company and its president, George E. Campbell, are charged in information laid by Attorney-General Robert Bonner with operating without a certificate issued by the superintendent of brokers.

Another charge alleges that the Tropical Products Ltd., a subsidiary, unlawfully acted as securities issuers contrary to the security act.

Listerine Antizyme Tooth Paste—the first to offer

All day protection from major cause of tooth decay

Antizyme places a Protective Guard on the teeth. Morning and night brushing stops decay acids for 24 hours.

IMPORTANT—FOR YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN:

Before ANTIZYME, morning and night brushing protected only minutes. People susceptible to tooth decay brushed their teeth, in tests, with dentifrices of all kinds, 1/2 hour after brushing, they were given a sugar rinse. In almost every case the Acidometer showed the presence of dangerous tooth decay acids. Effects of brushing were only temporary.

With ANTIZYME, morning and night brushing protects you 24 hours! Later, people used Antizyme Tooth Paste for one week. 12 to 24 hours after the last brushing, they again rinsed their mouths with a sugar solution. In 9 out of 10 cases, the Acidometer indicated "no harmful decay acids." Antizyme made the difference!

For the first time—brushing with Listerine Antizyme Tooth Paste places a colorless, odorless, tasteless ingredient on tooth surfaces. This protective guard stays there, protecting tooth enamel from decay acids. Just morning and night brushing can provide round-the-clock protection.

Pakistan Will Ask Moscow To Stop Threatening Notes

KARACHI (AP) — Pakistan officials said today they are preparing a note to Moscow requesting the Kremlin to stop making threats against this predominantly Moslem country. That was the reaction here to a Soviet note requesting that Pakistan clarify press reports that Karachi is negotiating with the United States to trade air bases for arms.

A government spokesman said Pakistan has no aggressive intention toward any power and added: "As far as any alliance, Pakistan will act according to her own lights and she will not tolerate any interference with her domestic or foreign policy from any quarter, whatsoever."

Government circles were reported extremely annoyed over the Soviet note, delivered here on Monday, and added that a counter-protest is being sent to Moscow asking the Soviet Union not to indulge in threats.

"If Pakistan starts protesting against Soviet policy toward the Moslem republics under Soviet influence, there will be no end to this business," government sources commented.

The United States has said the use of bases in Pakistan is not involved in current negotiations with Pakistan on possible U.S. military aid.

Frost, Timmins Join Ontario Strike Talks

New Session Set for Friday

TORONTO (BUP)—Government-sponsored talks aimed at settling northern Ontario's gold mine strikes were deadlocked today and adjourned until Friday while Premier Leslie Frost took a personal hand as a mediator.

Frost's intervention brought Jules Timmins, president of the big Hollinger Gold Mines in Timmins, and National Director C. H. Millard of the CIO United Steelworkers' union face to face yesterday for the first time since the strikes started four months ago.

ADJOURNED

The talks reached a dead end last night and were adjourned. Ontario Labor Minister Charles Daley said "you just can't arrive at a solution in a minute" that would solve the strikes over the union's demands for a pay increase and union dues checkoff.

Government and municipal officials at Timmins pinned their hopes for ending the strikes that have idled 7,000 Timmins area miners on a settlement at Hollinger. They believed a formula for ending the Hollinger strike could set a pattern at other mines.

It was expected Frost and Daley would meet privately with both sides before Friday's session.

Motion to Accept Sterling Payment Before MPs Today

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Commons was expected to vote today on Social Credit Leader Solon Low's "private enterprise" motion suggesting that sterling be accepted as part payment for Canadian exports.

Government floor leaders hoped that the vote would pave the way for completion of the general Throne Speech debate by Thursday night so the Commons could turn to legislative work which needs to be done before the Christmas recess.

Victor Quelch (SC-Adams), fourth-party financial critic, said Tuesday night in explaining the Social Credit motion that sterling should be accepted in payment for a certain proportion of Canadian exports to the sterling area "at least until such time as we can establish international machinery that will facilitate the movement of surplus goods to needy nations." He called for an overhaul of the Bretton-Woods agreement, which Social Crediters have consistently opposed.

WIDE FIELD

Tuesday's debate covered the widest field of any of the 12 days that the Throne Speech discussion has droned on. It ranged from the problems of manufacturers of buttons and barrels to the economic plights of farmers and fishermen and the status of the Canadian army.

Low's motion was an amendment to a non-confidence motion proposed at the start of the debate by Opposition Leader George Drew. It called for the House to go on record as de-

Standing Ovation For Dodd, Chief Of UN Food Body

ROME (Reuters)—Norris E. Dodd, 74-year-old former United States undersecretary of agriculture, announced his retirement as director-general of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization at its conference Tuesday.

Some 1,500 persons, including 500 government delegates from 70 countries and 1,000 FAO staff members, gave a standing ovation to Dodd, who has headed the organization's day-to-day work for 5½ years.

Dodd, visibly moved by the ovation, told the conference: "I firmly believe that FAO is the best implement of peace—better than tanks or guns. And FAO is trying to bring a little happiness and prosperity to the hungry and undernourished at less cost than a battleship or a fleet of planes."

The conference will elect Dodd's successor to the $18,000-year post later this month.

SANTA MAY NEED THAT HELICOPTER

By British United Press

It seemed today that Santa Claus would have to put wheels on his sleigh when he visits the west at Christmas and save the runners for the east.

With only 23 days left until the holiday, there wasn't more than two inches of snow anywhere in the Prairie provinces and there was little in sight. Meanwhile, rain was the rule in most of the east today, but the weather bureau promised "normal" weather for Christmas, which usually means snow.

Ernie Knows the Meaning of Courage

By ROY THORSEN

A man who loses his shooting eye can learn to hit a bird by sighting with the other one.

Ernie D. Todd, 66 and long-time sportsman, proved this point to his own satisfaction. A member of a pioneer family here, Mr. Todd lost the sight of his eye while hunting. There was no accident. It was one of those sudden crises brought on by slow deterioration.

Ernie isn't ambidextrous. It was quite a chore to learn to shoot all over again, using the left eye and shoulder. But he did it.

Veterans who saw Ernie

Todd shoot with his scattergun in a big trap-skeet last summer were amazed at his recovered skill. He powdered, clay pigeons right and left, many from awkward angles. "I'd say that right now he's shooting about 75 per cent on traps," said Roger Monteith, one of Todd's sportsman pals of long standing.

It's meant a lowering of his average, but he's still good. At the same shoot he and Ernie joined hands in a buddy shoot. They won.

Todd, by the way, last week won two turkeys at the Nimitz Christmas shoot. Monteith said that Todd is still going out on the game trails. "He's equipped himself with a 28-ball automatic shotgun. It's a light gun, but he had to use one because his doctor had told him to watch out for extreme shock when shooting," Monteith explained.

Victoria-born, Ernie was raised in the old Todd home at Vancouver and Johnson Streets.

"I have my father to thank for all the pleasure I've had out of the outdoors. He started me out on the game trails and at sport fishing," said the sportsman.

His father was the late Charles Fox Todd, "and was quite a sportsman himself," said the son.

Ernie started shooting when he was still a teen-ager. He has been a member of scattergun clubs most of his life.

At a recent shoot Ernie confided to the writer "there'd be no fun in life if you could not continue on with the sport you like best." He said, "I like with a small grin and in his usual soft-spoken way.

He was a member of one of the first trap-shooting clubs to be formed in this area. Records of shoots left by the late Bill Lentesky show Todd's name among the shooters 44 years ago.

He was one of the originals of a small group of sportsmen who banded together a few years before the Second World War to revive the Victoria Gun Club.

Ernie is still one of the mainstays, "and you can always bank on him coming along to help fix things up prior to big shoots," officials say. He is a past president and honorary president of the club. He was one of the four members who put up the money to get the club under way.

There are three E. D. Todd medallions up for perpetual competition among local and Island clay-pigeon-busters.

One is for the local club member scoring the longest straight run on the trap ranges at 16 yards. The others are a pair of challenge medallions open to competition among two-man teams from any registered club on Vancouver Island.

Todd is also prominent in the golfing world where his buttons are the target of many enthusiasts—including members of his own family.

Besides shooting, Ernie is an ardent fly-fisherman. He loves to get out with friends on lake or in a stream for a spot of fun with the wily trout.

He is a keen follower of major team sports here.

Ernie Todd when right-handed.

Maryland Tops Notre Dame in U.S. Grid Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—Maryland, the only United States college football team to go through a major schedule without a defeat or a tie, won the emblematic 1953 national college football championship undefeated and on the gridiron.

Maryland, winner of 10 games and headed for a New Year's Day engagement with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, earned the coveted O'Donnell Trophy in the final Associated Press poll of the season.

The O'Donnell Trophy donated by the Notre Dame Monogram Club in honor of the late Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, former Notre Dame football player, who became president of that institution, is awarded annually as a national championship emblem on the bases of the AP poll.

Maryland succeeds Michigan State as holder of the trophy. Michigan State, last year's champion, finished third. The Spartans were followed by Oklahoma, UCLA, Rice, Illinois, Georgia Tech, Iowa and West Virginia.

Royal Serenade May Run No More

ARCADIA, Calif. (UP)—Arcadia's Royal Serenade may miss the winter Santa Anita race meeting and there's a chance he may never race again, jockey Johnny Longden said today.

The Irish import, who continued his winning ways in this country after becoming the champion sprinter in England, has a bad left foreleg which may have been rapped in a training gallop.

Longden said the horse will not be able to run "for quite a while" and "probably" will be sent to stud if recovery takes too long.

Junior Rugger Champ To Be Named Tuesday

Performance of Victoria High School rugger next Tuesday will determine the resting place of the championship silverware in the Inter-High School Junior Rugby League.

As things stand now, Oak Bay juniors are leading the parade, one point ahead of Esquimalt in the standings.

Esquimalt can still win the championship if they beat Victoria High School, winless in three starts, in the final collision of the series next week. An Esquimalt defeat would give the silverware to Oak Bay but a tie would result in Esquimalt and Oak Bay sharing championship laurels.

TAKE LEAD

Oak Bay vaulted into the lead Tuesday on Victoria High School grounds when they scrambled to a 6-3 triumph over Vic. High.

Other games thus far in the series saw Esquimalt and Victoria fight to a scoreless tie. The Oak Bay aggregation bowed to Esquimalt 3-0 in their first meeting and their second tangle ended in a 3-3 draw. Victoria was swamped 22-0 by Oak Bay in their first meeting.

First-half score in the Tuesday meeting was 3-0, for Oak Bay. Bob Harvey went over for the try. The attempt to convert failed. Bays made it 6-0 early in the second half

Lack of Funds Slows Switch Of Franchise

ATLANTA (AP)—Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast League, said Tuesday night final transfer of the San Francisco franchise to a group headed by Damon Miller had been delayed because the group had not been able to lease

Stadium without obligating the league.

Miller and his associates in the Seals as yet have not sufficient funds to indemnify the league against ability for such obligation of a five-year lease, but hope to be able to secure them," the league announced in a written statement read by Rowland.

Rowland said Miller will have a "reasonable time" to arrange the lease. Later he said "about January 1" would be a good guess although no deadline has been set.

There were reports that another group of which Bill Veck was a member, might step into the picture if Miller is unable to complete his deal.

NEW YORK (AP)—Grecian Queen, a handsome dark bay owned by Mrs. Ben F. Whitaker of Dallas, Tex., is the unanimous choice of the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selectors as champion three-year-old filly for 1953.

The daughter of Heliopolis-Bania, who won seven of 12 races this year including the $100,000 New Castle Handicap, earned $229,375 in 1953. Five victories were in stakes.

Grecian Queen went out of her division to beat older mares in the New Castle Handicap. She also took the Princess Coaching Club, American Oaks, Gazelle Stakes and Monmouth Oaks.

Selke Takes Crack At Player Blockade

MONTREAL (BUP)—General manager Frank J. Selke of the Montreal Canadiens today blasted the junior council of the Ontario Hockey Association for attempting to block the transfer of players from the Kitchener-Waterloo Greenhirts to four other clubs in the Canadiens' farm system.

The Greenhirts were sold to the Canadiens last week and Selke ordered the club disbanded and its players transferred to the Montreal Royals and Canadiens, the Jonquiere Marquis and the Quebec Frontenacs of the Quebec Junior League and the St. Catharines Teepees of the OHA Junior A circuit.

Walter Weber, president of the Greenhirts, said the club was sold because the owners were unable to meet the payroll.

"We are losing $900 to $1,000 a week with no visible means of support," Weber said.

Today Selke issued a statement saying "this might be a good time to find out whether the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is run for the benefit of all Canada or the boys with the money bags in Ontario."

Merchants Meet Navy; Duggan Still Leader

Victoria Merchants, resting in the unfamiliar surroundings of third place in the Vancouver Island Commercial Hockey League, will get the opportunity of hoisting themselves a notch up the league ladder tonight.

Merchants slid from second place last week when they tied with Nanaimo Clippers, 2-2, while Victoria V's were measuring Navy, 6-4, and then Merchants dropped a close 3-1 decision to Clippers in Nanaimo Saturday night. The combination allowed V's to take second place, 26 percentage points ahead of Merchants.

Tonight, Merchants have the opportunity of parlaying the right combination into second place as they meet Navy in the 7:30 opener of the usual weekly card at Memorial Arena, while V's and Nanaimo meet at 9 in the feature. If Merchants get by Navy and V's bow to Clippers, Merchants will be back in second place.

TOP SCORER But however close the standings may be, the individual scoring race is strictly a one-man show with Clipper captain, Arnie Duggan, three city blocks ahead. Duggan has compiled 37 points in 14 games on 15 goals and 22 assists. He is a full dozen points ahead of line-mate Red Carr.

Don Medley, newest of three goalies to appear with Clippers this year, is the nominal leader in that position with an average of 1.50 goals scored against him in his only two games. Merchants' George Hall leads the regulars with a 3.70 mark.

Leading scorers follow:

to continue in the league. Chicago general manager James T. Gallagher said the Cubs will not continue to sponsor the Springfield club but Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the club, said he might operate independently.

The Pacific Coast League met Tuesday night to decide the validity of ownership of the San Francisco club. After purchasing the Seals from Paul Fagan, the PCL resold them to Damon Miller, a former employee of the club. The selling price was $100,000, of which Miller paid $10,000. President Clarence Rowland of the PCL said Miller will be given more time to pay the balance. It was rumored, however, that control of the club might go to someone else.

Victoria Cougars' perennial scoring leader, centre Ed Dorohoy, has risen fast in the Western Hockey League individual scoring standings and is now in a two-way tie for third place.

Dorohoy picked up eight points in his last two games on home ice to pull even with Calgary's Pat Lundy at 26 points, seven points behind league-leading Frank Ashworth of the Stampede at 33.

Wayne Brown of Seattle Bombers and Calgary's Sid Finney are deadlocked for second with 27 points.

ASSIST LEADER

Ashworth has the league high in assists with 23, three more than Dorohoy, who has 20. New Westminster Royals' Gordie Fashoway tops the circuit in goals scored, having flashed the red light 17 times.

Cougars' Andy Hebertson and Sam Bettio have each tallied 11 times.

Warwicks Lead V's to Win Over Vernon

By The Canadian Press

A trio of rampaging brothers and a goalie without nerves made life miserable for their teams' opponents on Tuesday night.

In Penticton, the Warwick brothers led the V's to a 5-1 victory over Vernon Canadians, while over in Kelowna, Kamloops Elks just made it 3-2 in overtime over the Packers. Both games were Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League fixtures.

Bill Warwick picked up two goals, with Grant Warwick and Don Berry assisting on one and Grant and brother Dick assisting on the other. Ernie Rucks, Jack McIntyre and Jim Fairburn scored the other Penticton markers. Bing Jukes scored the only Vernon goal.

The Warwicks also picked up their share of penalties, Dick collecting a minor and a 10-minute misconduct in the first period and another minor in the second.

Kamloops' Hal Gordon booted out 47 shots to the 27 handled by Al Laface in Packets' nets.

There was no scoring in the first period at Kelowna, but Bud Evans put Kamloops ahead 1-0 in the second. In the third, Frank Connors and Joe Hoskins put Kelowna into the lead 2-1, only to see Don Slater tie it up for Kamloops.

Slater slipped in the winner at 6:24 of the overtime session.

Cuban Valdes Tops Heavy Contenders

NEW YORK (AP)—Nino Valdes, the lanky Cuban who holds the Central American and Cuban heavyweight crown, has taken over the No. 1 position among heavyweight contenders in Ring Magazine's world ratings.

Valdes, first foreign heavyweight in years to become No. 1 contender, proved his right to a shot at Rocky Marciano's title recently by knocking out European titleholder Heinz Neunhaus in Dortmund, Germany.

The rise of Valdes to the post previously occupied by Roland La Starza is the major change in the ratings released today by editor Nat Fleischer. Neuhau has been dropped from fifth to seventh place and Earl Walls of Windsor, Ont., and Edmonton, Canada's top heavyweight, has advanced from seventh to fifth.

Other ratings include: Light Heavyweights—Champion, Archie Moore, St. Louis; contenders, 1. Harold Johnson, Philadelphia; 2. Joey Maxim, Cleveland; 3. Yolande Pomper, Trinidad.

Welterweights—Champion, Kid Gavilan, Havana; contenders, 1. Carlos Basilio, Syracuse, N.Y.; 2. Johnny Bratton, Chicago; 3. Johnny Saxton, Brooklyn.

Featherweights—Champion, Sandy Saddler, New York; contenders, 1. Teddy Davis, Hartford, Conn.; 2. Willie Pep, Hartford; 3. Percy Bassett, Philadelphia.

Southwest Hoop Star To Give Exhibitions

One of the southwest's all-time basketball greats, Bill Closs, has scheduled exhibitions on the coast.

Closs will be at Brentwood Community Hall Saturday night to give an exhibition under the sponsorship of the Saanich and Suburban Basketball League and Hocking & Forbes' sporting goods store.

Sunday he will give demonstrations in Cumberland and Chemainus before returning to Victoria High School gym on Monday afternoon at 3:45.

In his exhibitions Closs will demonstrate shooting, passing, dribbling, pivoting, offense and defense. He will use two teams from the Saanich league to illustrate his theories of fundamental ball-handling and play.

One of the highlights of his exhibition will be the showing of sound movies of major championship basketball contests of the past season, bring top games of the year to local basketball enthusiasts.

A graduate of Rice Institute, Closs won the Western Conference scoring championship in 1943 and was chosen on the Helms' All-American five. During a stint with the U.S. Marines he was a member of the team that won the 1945-46 Pacific service title.

After his hitch in the service he moved into pro ball with Indianapolis Kautzky's, went on to Anderson Packers, and then joined Philadelphia Warriors, the team that finished first in NBA eastern division in 1951.

Ex-Packer Coach In Dark About Stampeder Job

CHICAGO (AP)—Gene Ronzani, forced to resign as head coach of Green Bay Packers of the National Pro Football League last week, said Tuesday a report he would become coach of Calgary Stampede of the Western Interprovincial Football Union was "news to me."

"There has been no direct offer made to me concerning the job," said Ronzani, long a player and assistant for Chicago Bears before he took over at Green Bay. The report was printed by The Toronto Globe and Mail. The Calgary post is open.

Chihawks Suffer From Goal-Tender Miseries

2 BROOKLYN COACHES SIGN 1954 CONTRACTS

ATLANTA (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League Tuesday re-signed coaches Billy Herman and Jake Piller for one-year terms.

Cookie Lavagetto, the third of three coaches on the 1953 Dodgers club, announced his resignation earlier and is expected to join Charlie Dressen, former Dodgers manager and now with Oakland in the Pacific Coast League.

Walter Alston, Montreal Royals manager who succeeded Dressen at Brooklyn, said he expects to announce the signing of a third coach within a few days.

GRID ROUND-UP

Football Final a Classic of Sport

By DENNY BOYD

Canadian football, 1953, officially comes to an end Saturday with the benefit game at Macdonald Park for injured players.

But actually this season will never come to an end, not as long as the 2,000 fans who saw last Saturday's great battle between Royal Roads and Navy can savor the memories.

These two clubs not only put on one of the finest football games ever seen in Victoria but also one of the top sports spectacles of the year.

In spite of the fact that Navy was missing their peerless leader, Cam McIntyre, few fans gave the cadets any chance of topping the undefeated sailors in the playoff final. It seemed that Navy had too many guns, with Dave Burke, a powerful punter; Jack Grant, a spectacular breakaway runner; Doug Brown, an accomplished kicker and a big, meat-eating line.

But the cadets answered with a lot of intangible things, the foremost of which was a stern belief in the point that had been pounded into them by coaches Dave Turner and Bud Archibald. "You can win if you want to badly enough."

Imbued with that idea, the cadets played just about 10 feet over their heads. Their small line charged furiously, keeping the Navy club off balance; Ron Binnie and Paul Munger threw passes like they never had thrown before and Norm Freeman, Bill Broughton and Dick Wilbur made circus catches all over the field. A sleeper play on the first scrimmage play was good for almost 40 yards and set up the cadets' first point and the old-fashioned "whisper play" scored the first touchdown. It has been said that the first time these two plays were used the ball was made of dinosaur hide. But old or not, they worked to perfection.

The cadets almost lost the game in the third quarter when the Navy club, paced by Grant and Burke, was at its best, but the Royal Roads line, led by Don Grey, just dug in a little harder and saved the decision. Referees of the game were almost unanimous in naming Grey the outstanding player of the game with Grant running a close second.

The cadets went wild with unbridled joy following the game, living it up and carrying their coaches off the field. The cadet cheering section could probably be heard in U.S. B.C. incidentally, it was no coincidence that the cheering section did its loudest shouting on the first play of the game when end Dick Wilbur was standing on the sidelines, waiting for a pass.

With all that shouting going on, the Navy defensive players were unable to hear their bench screaming at them to cover the man on the sidelines. That is an example of how details were taken care of.

Sunday morning at the school, the sermon in church services were directed at the game, the moral being that nothing is impossible. Following the service, coach Turner thanked the padre for the sermon and said, "By the way, I had a little talk with your boss around the third quarter Saturday."

Fans will be pleased to know that the two-cadet players removed from the game with injuries, Len Creelman and Don Kristjanson, were not seriously hurt and were back at classes on Monday.

Just how much quarterback Cam McIntyre meant to the Navy club was proven beyond a shadow of a doubt Saturday. When the club bogged down there was no McIntyre to throw his accurate passes for first downs or to keep the ball and run it if necessary. But even more important, the Navy team was without a leader who could shake the team up when they were dragging or to calm them down when they got too riled.

The Navy club has shown a great deal of good sportsmanship in agreeing to meet the City All-Stars this Saturday. Proceeds from the game will be distributed among the civvy clubs to pay for medical bills and Navy will not receive a cent of the take. They are to be congratulated for a fine gesture.

By The Canadian Press

The dismal showing of Chicago Black Hawks and their goalkeeper problems had fans around the National Hockey League circuit wondering today where it would all end.

The last-place Hawks, who meet New York Rangers in the only National Hockey League game tonight, apparently have no goaltender who is well, and that goes for Jack Gelineau who is reported as saying he wasn't up to scratch when he made his big-time comeback attempt last week-end.

It all adds up to trouble plus in the Hawk camp. They have not done a thing since net-minder Al Rollins came down with chicken pox last week.

Gelineau, the McGill University graduate who won the NHL's rookie award with Boston Bruins three years ago and was scored on 18 times by Detroit Red Wings last week-end, was quoted as saying by the Chicago American Tuesday that he was not in "physical condition to play hockey."

For two weeks, I've been troubled with strained tendons in both hip joints and I also suffered a sprained ankle," the story said.

SAYS SERVICES FORCED Gelineau was reported as saying Chicago vice-president Bill Tobin was told about the situation last week but pressed him into service anyway.

Chicago coach Sid Abel charged Gelineau played one of the worst games "I've seen in years."

A win for the Rangers tonight would give them 13 points, five behind the fourth-place Bruins.

While the Black Hawks were trying to unravel their problems, Montreal Canadiens were going over their injury list to see who would be in shape for the Toronto-Montreal game at Montreal Thursday night.

A doubtful starter is Elmer Lach, who is having trouble with a slashed ankle. Others out are centre Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau.

Marion Signs as Coach for Browns ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Marty Marion, who managed the last-place St. Louis Browns in 1953, has been signed as coach of Chicago White Sox. It was announced Monday night.

Marion, who had piloted St. Louis Cardinals to a third-place finish in 1951 before joining the Browns as a player-coach the following season, was dropped by Baltimore Orioles after they inherited the Browns last month, although his three-year contract had another year to go. Roger Cramer, who coached the White Sox last season, was dropped to make room for Marion. Cramer has been offered another job in the organization but has not yet made his decision.

ALL-AMERICAN LATTNER MUM ON PRO AMBITIONS

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (CP)—Notre Dame's all-American Johnny Lattner isn't talking about any aspirations he may have to play pro football.

The brilliant 20-year-old half, touted by the Vancouver Province earlier this week as "an odds-on bet to join the British Columbia Lions for next year's season, says of the pro game: "I haven't been thinking about it too much."

Lattner, asked if he would turn pro after graduation, said: "I'd like to, but I'm in the air force ROTC (university officers' training reserve) and may have to go into service after graduation."

A Mighty Man Is the Smith

By RON COULTER

Sixteen-year-old Ken Smith was the big man in the Capital City Major Fivepin League this week.

Rolling for the youthful King Pins, Smith trundled single games of 262, 294 and 243 to set the pace with a 799 triple.

Other top totals were rolled by Murray Martin, 747; Marg Deslauriers, 735; Phil Smith, 721; Dave Doltile, 720; Jack Ferguson, 717; Reg Waagener, 710; Bus Stoddart, 708; and Bob Bird with 707. George Dean checked in leading single of 304.

King Pins, leading the league with a six-point bulge over second-place Biddles, claimed high team triple of 3,393, while Five Timers marked up a single game of 1,272.

Lou Keen shot a 779 total and Leo Kozak added a 732 in Monday mixed play. Kozak had top single of 327, while Keen was runner-up with a 316.

In week-end mixed action Mac McKenzie, 721; Eleanor Clunk, 717; Marg Deslauriers, 709, and Lance Bayly at 707 fired high triples.

Art Cathcart rolled seven straight strikes before missing a frame and came in with high single game of 355. He concluded play with a 693 total.

Roy Morberg, 753; Howie Butler, 711; Len Brown, 678; and Marje Bellamy with 610 posted high triples in the mixed commercial league. Morberg hit for a 302 single.

The Authorized Brakes team of the St. Louis All-Star league scored a 3,436 series recently to take the lead in the ABC's race for seasonal tenpin high score awards.

Team members and their scores follow: Ray Bluth, 698; Claude Fears, 690; Don McClaren, 687; Frank Mataya, 685; Pat Patterson, 676.

Pete Kozloski currently has the highest individual series reported. The trundler from Plains, Pa., hit for single games of 278, 280 and 257 for a torrid 815 triple.

How hard is a pinboy's job? If one of the back-end boys set 30 string of tenpins for keggers averaging 150 pins and throwing 15 balls per game, he would lift approximately 25,950 pounds.

TABLES TURNED ON STAMPEDERS

Henry Johnson Jumps to 49-ers

SAN FRANCISCO (BUP)—The San Francisco Forty-Niners turned the tables on Canadian football today by luring sensational halfback John Henry Johnson from Calgary Stampeder to their National League club for next season.

Johnson, who became a gridiron legend at St. Mary's and Arizona (Tempe) State, was signed to a 1954 contract Tuesday.

He was voted most valuable player in Canada's Western Interprovincial Football Union this season. Frankie Albert rated him the "greatest football player" he's ever seen.

President Anthony Morabito of the Forty Niners said the deal for the speedy halfback actually was completed in August with the Pittsburgh Steelers figuring in the adroit manoeuvre.

Johnson was drafted by the Steelers last spring but refused to report and went into Canadian football with Albert. Morabito said a deal then was worked with Pittsburgh in which the Forty-Niners gave up their rights to Ed Fullerton, Maryland halfback.

Johnson said Tuesday he is leaving here in January to get his degree in physical education at Arizona State. He has less than a semester to go. Next summer he reports to coach Buck Shaw for "spring training."

Johnson, six feet two inches tall and a family man with four children, is rated "one of the finest prospects ever to come into the National League" by Morabito.

MERRY CHRISTMAS WINDOWS URGED ON CITY SHOPKEEPERS

"Retailers should put forth a burst of energy in decorating their store windows this Christmas," Geoff Ellis, chairman of Victoria Chamber of Commerce's retail merchants group, said today.

"Design and execute a really unique and attractive window display, perhaps a little removed from the commercial aspect," he suggested to storekeepers.

In a letter to merchants, Mr. Ellis drew attention to B.C. Electric's non-commercial Christmas display at Government and Belleville, and to Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group's Nativity tableau to be erected on the roof of Victoria & Island Publicity Bureau.

"These two efforts are worthy of our support," Mr. Ellis told the city's shopkeepers. "Let's do our utmost to match them by creating shop window displays that will make visitors and citizens alike aware of the true Christmas spirit."

Argentine Price Rules Liverpool Wheat Trade

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Wheat futures trading resumed here Tuesday after a 14-year lapse.

Futures trading, which allows traders and millers to guard themselves against fluctuations in world prices, produced a handful of deals in Canadian, Argentine, United States and Australian wheat for delivery next May and July.

The first transaction involved wheat prices at 23s 6d a 100 pounds ($1.97 a bushel) for delivery in British ports next May. The price, which subsequently dropped about three pence, was in line with prevailing rates for Argentine wheat. There were early transactions for July delivery at two pence higher.

The prices were lower than Canada's International Wheat Agreement maximum of $2.05 a bushel for No. 1 northern and higher than the IWA minimum of $1.55 a bushel. The non-IWA price a bushel quoted at Winnipeg Monday for wheat in store at the Lakehead, Vancouver and Montreal was $1.87.

B.C. Hospital Insurance Evaders Will Face Penalty, Cabinet Rules

British Columbia will revert to a compulsory hospital insurance system next year, Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin announced after a special cabinet meeting late Tuesday.

The government has been carrying on a semi-voluntary system but has decided to call a crackdown on thousands of British Columbians who are evading payment of premiums.

Mr. Martin said the next premium period is from January 1 to June 30 and the due date for payment is December 31.

The government, he said, will prosecute persons who can afford to pay, but don't.

The new plan has one major difference from the former government's compulsory scheme—persons found guilty of dodging premium payment will pay a maximum fine of $25, plus the current six-month premium.

This is in line with the government's "no-arrears" policy. It means that a delinquent can become re-instated by simply paying the current six-month premium. The previous government's plan required a delinquent to pay all arrears before becoming eligible for coverage.

The health minister said persons who cannot afford to pay will not be prosecuted.

He will decide who is able to pay premiums and who is not. He will be guided by recommendations of the BCHIS and social welfare branch.

No provision has been made to designate what sized salary will allow exemption from payments.

The fact that low income groups will not be forced to pay premiums, however, does not mean they don't have to pay hospital bills.

PERSONAL ISSUE

A person excused premium payment will have to pay his own hospital bill. It will be an issue between the person and the hospital.

It is understood, though, in these cases BCHIS picks up the uncollectable bills at the end of each year and re-imburse the hospitals.

Mr. Martin couldn't say how many persons have been dodging payment of premiums. Neither could L. F. Detweiler, BCHIS chief.

They said it will be impossible to determine this figure until the end of the next billing period in December. This means the figure will be unknown until January or February.

In Victoria, they estimated, 42 per cent of the persons entering hospital were non-insured.

The change in government policy came after several months' criticism of the former policy which, in effect, made hospital insurance compulsory for persons on payroll deduction but voluntary for all others.

The government's action last May in abolishing all premiums arrears, however, remains unchanged.

Mr. Martin said the government's plan of permitting re-instatement in BCHIS by payment of the current premium (forgiving arrears) attracted 10,000 into the scheme.

OFFERS EXPLANATION

He explained the government's policy change this way: It is a principle of this government that each individual has certain inalienable rights which cannot be lightly ignored. We offered to the people the opportunity of re-establishment with BCHIS.

Many thousands took the opportunity. However, others did not. It is also a principle of this government that the major function of any government is to bring to the people the results which the people want in the management of their affairs.

"Under the act, all employed and self-employed persons are required to pay premiums and enjoy the protection of the service in return."

"Since arrears have been cancelled and government policy approved by the last session of the Legislature, it is now possible and equitable to require that all persons who are able pay their premiums."

"This government will therefore ensure that premium payment by individuals and company participation on payroll deduction will be forthcoming in all instances."

Mr. Martin said the government feels it has given every opportunity to persons who are able to pay premiums to do so on a voluntary basis.

"We know that the people of this province want all persons to contribute their share," he said.

The minister noted the payroll deduction plan has been expanded in recent months. There were only a few companies which didn't agree to institute payroll deduction.

He warned these, "and others who may emulate such action," that the government will take legal action to ensure they comply with the law.

"Such action is, of course, only fair to the thousands of employers who have co-operated with the government, and in so doing ensured that their employees received the protection of the service," he said.

The government's announcement came as a surprise.

Mr. Martin, in answer to queries, said the BCHIS fund was getting low and this was a method of gathering more cash.

He said the financial position was "very good."

The change is in direct contradiction to Social Credit party policies of "no compulsion" which was one of the party's main planks in the 1952 and 1953 election platforms.

Hospital insurance premiums now cost $27 for a single person and $39 for a married person.

Plans New Assault On Himalaya Peaks

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Sir Edmund Hillary, the conqueror of Mount Everest, will lead a New Zealand mountaineering expedition next year to the Himalayas to try to scale one or more of three unclimbed peaks.

The peaks are Makalu II, a subsidiary of the larger peak which is 27,790 feet high; Pangtse, 22,060 feet, and Baruntse, 22,560 feet, which the climbers will attempt between April and June.

C. E. Collins, a vice-president of the New Zealand Alpine Club, said it is "very unlikely" that the New Zealanders will try to climb Makalu itself if a party from the United States fails to do so.

TAKE A TIP FROM WINNIE

To Live to 80 Live With Gusto

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—All who want to live into their 80th year should take a few tips from Winston Churchill.

He is the best known artist of living in our time. Why? It can be put into one word—Gusto.

"All babies look like me," he quipped once. And he has retained the qualities that mark all healthy children—imagination, curiosity, enthusiasm, and the desire to keep on growing up.

Churchill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, saw it change to brass, and by his own efforts turned it into gold.

American football brags about its 60-minute player, but in the tremendous battlefield of life Churchill has seen nearly 60 years of continuous action—and at 79 is still going at a gallop.

Churchill has never been afraid to be greatly wrong. He has never run from death or hesitated to outface fear. He has undertaken mighty responsibilities, not as irksome duties, but as welcome adventures.

"Power, for the sake of lord, is a great temptation," he wrote. "But power in a national crisis, when a man believes he knows what orders should be given, is a blessing."

Churchill has never lost faith in himself, in victory or defeat. He never took his goals too lightly or himself too seriously. He has never lost his sense of humor.

"If Hitler invaded hell," he said once, "I would make at least a favorable reference to the devil in the House of Commons."

He is an actor, a painter, an orator, a statesman, philosopher, warrior, and literary genius. He wrote fine history, and he made fine history—with both his words and his deeds.

Churchill has played and worked with equal fervor all his life, and yet is a stout defender of the afternoon nap.

Navy Reservists Sought to Train On Great Lakes

Some Victoria naval reservists may take summer training on the Great Lakes this year. It was learned today at HMCS Malahat.

Commanding officer, Cmdr. G. A. V. Thompson, issued a call for reserve members to sign for special duty during the period April 1 to October 1 on Bangor class minesweepers on the Great Lakes.

Volunteers will receive full pay for the time of their summer service, and if prolonged, will receive full pay and allowances.

Headquarters for Canada's reserve naval training is now situated at Hamilton, Ontario.

McCarthy Grab For Presidency Seen in GOP

Moderate Group
Hopes He'll Cook
Own Goose

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—There is ample evidence here that some distinguished administration insiders believe Senator Joseph R. McCarthy is grabbing for the 1956 Republican presidential nomination.

It appears, also, that the administration is not ready for an open break with the junior senator from Wisconsin.

Administration strategy seems to be based on the idea that if McCarthy is given enough rope, he will hang himself.

There is little comment on McCarthy for publication. But he is an endless subject of private discussion—a situation which is said to visitors to Washington to exist generally through the nation.

Whatever the senator's political objectives may be, these facts emerge clearly: He is the most controversial figure in the United States today. He has a very large following.

The belief that he was running for president spread widely after McCarthy's televised address last week replying to former President Truman's remarks about "McCarthyism" in connection with the Harry Dexter White espionage expose.

CHALLENGES IKE

McCarthy challenged President Eisenhower in that speech on several issues, including an alleged softness toward Communism. The most widely publicized of McCarthy's challenges on policy had to do with Communism as a political issue in the 1954 congressional elections.

"The raw, harsh, unpleasant fact," McCarthy said, "is that Communism is an issue and will be an issue in 1954."

Republican National Committee chairman Leonard W. Hall had said just about the same thing earlier this month when the White case was blazing. Mr. Eisenhower was asked at his news conference about Hall's statement. Several questions were put to the President. His replies ran to several hundred words which since have been somewhat carelessly reduced by writers and commentators to a brief expression of hope that the issue of Communism would have disappeared by election time next year.

WHAT PRESIDENT WANTS

Re-examination of Mr. Eisenhower's remarks shows that he made three points with respect to Communism-in-government.

1. He hoped and believed firm action by the executive department would have disposed of the Communist-in-government business before the next campaign.

2. He did not challenge the right of Congress to investigate but, very obviously, felt that clean-up of the executive department was a job for the executive department.

3. He hoped the job would be done well and quickly enough to permit campaign concentration on other urgent problems, such as taxes, farm relief and the general welfare.

McCarthy may obtain his own downfall, as some administration advisers are believed to hope and expect. But the senator's friends do not think so. On the contrary, they are convinced the 1954 campaign will establish the senator among the leaders of the Republican party with prestige sufficient to give him a considerable voice in overall party policy-making.

Son of Pioneers, Alex Munro Dies Here at 82

Funeral service will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. in Hayward's chapel for Kenneth Van-couver Munro, 82, youngest member of one of Victoria's pioneer families, who died here Monday.

Mr. Munro was the son of Alexander Munro, chief factor here for the Hudson's Bay Company from 1857 to 1890. Mr. Munro joined the Canadian Bank of Commerce as a youth, and stayed with the bank until his retirement at the age of 60. In that time he opened Victoria branches at Cornovant and Douglas Streets, Bay and Douglas Streets, and worked in the stock and bond divisions of the bank's Seattle and San Francisco branches.

His wife died in 1942. Since his retirement Mr. Munro had lived at the Pacific Club. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. John Irving, in England, and a nephew, Dallas Munro, Victoria. Cremation will follow the funeral service, and interment will be made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

London's Flowers Confused by 'Spring'

LONDON (AP)—For the fourth straight day Britain and most of western Europe basked Tuesday in spring-like weather. Many areas reported confused spring flowers coming up in profusion.

November was unusually warm, but December's beginning was an ever bigger surprise. In many big cities Christmas decorations seemed oddly out of place in the bright sun and warm breeze.

Exchange President Calls Wheat Board 'Monopolistic'

LONDON, Ont. (BUP)—Stanley N. Jones, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, Tuesday night blamed the Canadian Wheat Board for this country's difficulties in finding world wheat markets and urged a return to open market trading.

Jones called the wheat board "monopolistic" in an address to the London Chamber of Commerce. He estimated Canada's wheat stocks at 331,000,000 bushels at mid-November, and said another 475,000,000 bushels were stored on the farms of the 240,000 prairie grain growers.

Jones said there were 100,000,000 more bushels of wheat on hand now than at this time last year, but because farmers "seldom alter considerably the rate at which they produce," the surplus problem would be aggravated next year if the 1954 crop was even only an average one.

Jones said prairie farmers could only sell their wheat to the Canadian Wheat Board which used "a monopolistic price-fixing sales method which has failed to move abundant production into use."

BRITISH OFFICER AWARDED VC FOR HEROISM IN KOREA

LONDON (Reuters)—A young British lieutenant, killed while leading a platoon of the "Glorious Glosters" in the regiment's famed stand in 1951 at the Imjin River, has been awarded the Victoria Cross, it was announced Tuesday.

The VC has been given posthumously to Lieut. Philip Kenneth Curtis. The citation said the platoon was pinned down, but Curtis ordered his men to cover him and charged the enemy strong-point alone with grenades. He was wounded and dragged back, but again charged the enemy.

Say 'I Made It Myself'
And Surprise Your Friends

By PENNY SAVER

Ever want to build a ship? You can, just as easy as one, two, three!

Doubt my word? Well, if I can build one successfully, anyone can, believe me! Mind you, I couldn't get from here to Seattle on it (much as I'd like to) but at least I can say I've built a ship. Even if it is a replica of the old Mayflower... even if it is made of plastic... even if it is just big enough to fit inside a bottle. It's a ship, by golly!

Yes, I said "inside" a bottle! Pretty crafty, eh? You won't think so when I let you in on a little secret. That's if you promise not to tell.

I wouldn't want anyone else to know that I made the ship first and then fitted the bottle around it. You see, the bottle is in two sections and glues together around the completed miniature. Can't tell the difference once it's finished! Bottle is plastic, too, but the only way to tell it isn't glass is to drop it. (Don't drop it too hard now, it won't shatter, but it may crack.)

Getting back to the ship inside the bottle, you'll find all parts prefabricated for easy assembly. Just put 'em together and paint 'em. You don't have to choose the Mayflower as I did. Why not try a miniature of Drake's ship, the Golden Hind? Or how about the Santa Maria? There are many others to choose from, as well. Sets cost $2.65 complete, except for the paint.

Special paint for plastic costs 25 cents a bottle... any color.

Changing the subject completely, I'd like to tell you about some absolutely stunning pieces of copper jewelry. You know how well copper goes with wool-crepe, Vyella, and all the other winter dress fabrics. Well, these pieces aren't exceptions! You can have a set of necklace, bracelet and earrings for just $1.50. Imagine! Hand-made, too! A Victoria war veteran makes them.

Give me a call, folks, if you want to place any orders.

Girl Warned Against Running After Boy

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

One of the common mistakes a teenage girl may make is to try to force a boy to pay attention to her. A 14-year-old girl writes:

Hurlock

(Q)—"Recently at a dance I met a boy who, to tell the truth, is a living doll. He appealed to me and I think he kind of liked me, even though he seems to be a little bit fast and a little bit conceited (he has a reason to be). Please don't tell me to give up because he has some good qualities. Rather, would you tell me how to make him see I'm alive?"

(A)—It is always poor tactics for a girl to try obviously to make a boy notice her. Boys resent this type of pursuit. They don't like to have a girl run after them, even if they have shown an interest in her.

When a boy is conceited and fast, he is likely to interpret a girl's interest in him as a signal to go as far as he pleases with her. Surely you do not want to create this impression.

If you want to see this boy again, perhaps your mother will let you have an informal party in your home with some of the girls and boys of your class. You could ask this boy and, if he accepted, make it your business to see that he had an especially good time.

Then the next step would be up to him. If he liked you, he would ask for a date. Otherwise, you would just have to face facts and forget him.

Of course a boy who is conceited and fast can have good qualities but he is not likely to show them too visibly when he is with girls. If you go out with this boy, you had better watch your step. Only a rather sophisticated girl can handle such a boy successfully.

A special service to our readers, Dr. Hurlock has written a 64-page booklet, "You and Your Problems." For your copy send 15 cents in coin with a self-addressed stamped envelope to this newspaper.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by
Mrs. Ben Guler
(Mother of 5)

Grab-bag - gaily. An old pillow or sturdy shopping bag filled with inexpensive toys makes a magic grab-bag when other toddlers come to visit your tot. And children love choosing their own toys!

A tip-top appetite. You'll love the way baby's appetite grows when you give him good-tasting foods he likes and needs. Like Gerber's Strained Fruits, Vegetables, Meat-Soups and Desserts. Made by the folks who make "babies their business"... their only business, they're tops in flavor, extra-appetizing in color and provide the solid nourishment your growing youngster needs. All are pre-cooked, ready to serve.

Very often babies at the six or seven months old stage show a definite inclination to shy away from the sandman. Parents who face this predicament might profitably induce sleep by remembering these pointers:

1. Soft lullabies (on or off key) are relaxing, do encourage sleep.
2. A well-satisfied tummy does much to help close little eyes.
3. Non-restricting sleeping garments are a must. Excitement is taboo.
4. Cuddling a favorite soft toy often works magic.

Share and share alike. If you've any tips you'd like to share with other mothers, send them to me: Box 17, Toronto 18, Canada.

Dessert delights definitely concocted to please a toddler's palate. Gerber's Junior fruits and puddings are so delicious with their delicate flavors. Nice variety for baby too—choice of Apricot Applesauce, Applesauce, Peaches, Pears, Pear Pineapple fruit desserts and Plums with Tapioca, Chocolate, and Pineapple puddings. Try them! Junior's bound to clamor for more.

Christmas Cakes for Bazaar

Marjorie Shaw, Lorna Griffiths and Helen Chamberlain, left to right, assist in making Christmas cakes and puddings for the annual holly bazaar sponsored by Junior Auxiliary to Victoria Protestant Orphanage, this Saturday from 2 to 5. Special buses will run all afternoon to the Orphanage, where the affair will be held. There will be stalls of home cooking, aprons, candy, garden produce and holly, babywear, toys and teens, dolls, novelties, and superfluities. Afternoon tea will be served.

Rosie O'Grady Is Bride
In Cathedral Ceremony

St. Andrew's Cathedral was scene of an impressive double wedding ceremony recently. When Miss Rosie O'Grady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Grady, Knockadaleen, Ballymote, County Sligo, Eire, repeated wedding promises with AB Robert Recknagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Recknagle, Jasper Park, Alta.

Father D. LeHane officiated at the ceremony. Traditional wedding music was played on the organ by Miss M. McKay. The bride's brother-in-law, William Cook, gave her in marriage.

A cloud of white nylon net created an ankle-length gown for the bride. She also wore a jacket of fine lace studded on the collar with seed pearls and rhinestones. A coronet held her veil of nylon net which, filmed to chapel length. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings.

Bridesmaid, Mrs. Mary Duggan, wore a waist-length gown of coral nylon net with matching headress trimmed with tiny white flowers. She carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations and chrysanthemums.

Flower girls were Misses Susan Cook and Sheila Duggan, who wore identical ankle-length gowns of pale blue nylon net with lace inserts. They carried colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds and white delphiniums and wore matching floral hair bandeaux.

Best man was AB William Major. Ushers were AB James Noble and AB Larry Cuthbert. Reception was held at the home of Mrs. M. Duggan, where Mrs. Recknagle, mother of the groom, and Mrs. M. Cook, sister of the bride, received guests.

Father LeHane proposed the toast to the bride. A two-tier wedding cake was topped with a gold vase of pink and white carnations.

The couple will live at 1146 Richardson Street.

1 cup hot water
1 cup cold water
1/2 cup canned grapefruit juice
1/2 cup drained, canned grapefruit segments
1/2 cup drained, sweetened, pitted cherries

Dissolve Jell-O in HOT water. Add cold slightly thickened. Then fold in grapefruit and cherries. Turn into mould. Chill until firm. Unmould and garnish — very attractive with Frosted Green Grapes.

Frosted Green Grapes: Brush grapes well with egg white which has been beaten until slightly foamy. Sift fine granulated until dry.

JELL-O

THE BEST IDEA ANY TIME!

You're sure to agree, when Jell-O is so thrifty to serve — and when all seven delicious "jelled-in" flavors are so good to eat. And Jell-O combines so well with so many foods.

Take the Grapefruit and Cherry Mould above. Such a simple recipe... allowing lots of scope for your own variations.

Does your family ask for some favorite over and over again? Bananas perhaps, or pineapple, pears? All of these mix wonderfully with Cherry Jell-O. And when you use canned fruits, the fruit syrup can be part of thickened, before mixing in the chosen fruits.

With or without fruits, you'll make wonderfully appetizing Jell-O dishes. Another delightful idea is to combine two or three flavors of cubed Jell-O. Chill Jell-O in shallow pans; cut into cubes; spoon layers of each flavor into sherbet glasses. A dab of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry makes it all the more exciting!

Architecture, Current Events Are Factors in Designing of Clothes

People wear clothes which, in design, match the architectural structures of buildings surrounding them, Miss Stella Mary Pearce, noted European costume historian and consultant, told members of Women's Canadian Club, Tuesday afternoon, in the Club Sirocco.

Using the Middle Ages as an example, Miss Pearce spoke of the towering spires and turrets on buildings in that period.

"Fashionable clothing at that time featured the spiky, sharp, pointed look," she said. Shoes were pointed, garments were styled with pointed waistlines and sleeves, and women wore headresses that were lofty and tapered to a sharp point.

"Compare this Gothic type of dress with that of the 18th century, when building structures followed horizontal lines," the speaker pointed out.

Clothes then were fashioned in rounded designs with lines running crosswise rather than vertically. To look alike, men and women even wore hair of the same color. "Hence the powdered grey wigs of that day," Miss Pearce said.

"Why do styles of architecture and clothing change from romantic to classic?" the speaker questioned, and then answered, "Through the influence of world events."

Before Christianity, the Greeks and Romans wore pagan clothing, she explained. As the beauty of the human body was almost worshipped, they chose clinging materials, sheer enough to give way easily, showing the wearer's every movement.

"Christians didn't want to point out the beauty of the body but of the soul," the speaker said. "Therefore they wore clothing of a more concealing nature."

The change was a thickening of clothing. The body disappeared beneath layers of material, and the wearer's movements were considerably restricted. Another example was difference in clothing before and after the French and Industrial Revolutions. Before, the stylish clothing of the aristocrat, fashioned of finest silks and satins, told of his high station in life.

With the revolutions, man's attitude changed completely and his style of dress conformed with his thinking. He no longer desired to look like an aristocrat. Clothing became severe and fabrics were darker and of the heavy, broadcloth texture.

The emancipation brought more freedom of clothing, especially for women. If they were to be man's equal, they must be able to move quickly to do the things he did, Miss Pearce pointed out.

The "casual" idea continued to be fashionable until 1950. "I don't like to predict," she said, "but I think we are undergoing a change right now."

Miss Pearce was introduced by Mrs. Gordon Wismer, and was thanked by Colin Graham, curator of the Arts Centre. Mr. Graham showed slides to illustrate the styles described by Miss Pearce. Women members of the Arts Centre were also present.

Holiday Star Fruitcake

"CHRISTMAS STAR" LIGHT FRUITCAKE is the special recipe for this traditional dish for Christmas, 1953.

Every year as Christmas draws near, Lucy M. Maltby of Corning, N.Y., dreams up a new and wonderful fruitcake recipe for our readers. She likes to bake them in round, heat-resistant glass cake dishes and give them to friends for Christmas.

For 1953, here's her "Christmas Star" Light Fruitcake recipe. It makes two round cakes 8 1/4 inches in diameter.

"CHRISTMAS STAR"

Two and one-half cups sifted flour, 1 1/4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon ground mace, 1 cup slivered, blanched almonds, 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 1 cup golden raisins, 3 cups prepared fruits for cake (1 pound fruit mix), 3/4 cup shortening, 1 1/4 cups sugar, 4 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon orange extract, few drops almond extract, 6 tablespoons pineapple juice.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and spices together. Dust nuts, raisins and fruit mix with about 1/2 cup of flour mixture. Cream shortening and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Stir in extracts. Add flour mixture alternately with pineapple juice. Stir in fruits and nuts.

Turn batter into two greased, heat-resistant glass, round cake dishes, 8 1/4 inches in diameter. Cover with heat-resistant glass covers from two-quart casserole. Bake in very slow oven, 275 degrees F., from 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 hours.

Bake and store these cakes with covers on to keep the cake moist. For long storage, seal on the covers with tape.

Decorate the tops of the cakes with red and green cherries and blanched almonds.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Diet Improvement Needed For the Teen-Age Group

More attention has been given lately to teen-age posture and diet. Surveys have shown that teen-age girls have the poorest posture of any group. It has also been demonstrated that the percentage of teen-age girls who are adequately nourished is alarmingly low.

Many of these girls come from homes which serve adequate meals but they snack in the afternoon, thus spoiling their appetite for what is usually the main meal. They rush off in the morning with practically no breakfast and are apt to choose a hot dog and a candy bar at noon. This, all added together as a general habit, means malnutrition.

If teen-agers could only realize what their daily diet means to them, not only in present and future health but in beauty, they might take it more seriously. The complexion, the hair, the personality, the eyes, are all affected by the food we eat. Food is especially important to the girl who is rapidly turning from a girl into a woman for this is one of the stress times physically and emotionally.

It is believed that good nutrition during childhood and adolescence is especially important for girls because it may affect childbearing later on. There is some evidence that poor nutrition during these years may lead to trouble later on.

Surveys have discovered that only around 38 per cent of teen-age girls eat enough of the essential foods. They are especially deficient in vitamin C, and this is such an easy vitamin to get since it is found in potent amounts in the citrus fruits.

Cornell's researchers found that teen-agers were usually worse off nutritionally than younger children because they have more freedom selecting the food they eat while the younger fry are more carefully supervised.

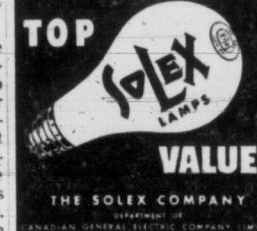

In teen-age children insistence on adequate amounts of the essentials will probably have to be more subtly done. It is rather difficult to spoon-feed a 15-year-old girl. You can keep the fruit bowl filled, and be sure to include oranges. You can keep the cookie jar filled with cookies which supply health values, such as oatmeal cookies or those which have wheat germ added.

Whole wheat muffins with raisins is another trick.

Anyway teen-agers and their mothers should take their diets seriously.

If you would like to have my leaflet written for teen-agers especially send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Popularity" No. 53 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

For the one hot food to serve with cold cuts and salad, bake a casserole of California dry limas. Zip up the cooked limas with a can of condensed tomato soup, a bit of vinegar and your favorite barbecue seasonings. Bake about an hour in moderate oven to blend flavors.

U.S. NAVY SCIENTIST WARTIME SPY

FBI Identify Man In Admiral's Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators disclosed Tuesday that in 1945 the Federal Bureau of Investigation identified a wartime scientist in the office of Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King as a Soviet agent who may have stolen secrets of the hush-hush proximity fuse.

A hitherto secret portion of an FBI report on Soviet espionage, released by the Senate internal security subcommittee, said the identification was made possible by Igor Gouzenko.

The subcommittee deleted the scientist's name from the report and identified him only as "X."

The report described Mr. X as a native-born American who went to work for the wartime office of scientific research and development, and was assigned as a scientific consultant to King. As commander-in-chief of the U.S. fleet and chief of naval operations, King was the highest officer in the navy.

Information developed by the RCMP, the report said, indicated it is possible that Mr. X gave secrets of the proximity fuse to Dr. Allan Nunn May, British scientist and confessed Soviet spy who was stationed in Montreal during the war.

The FBI report said May passed on a garbled description of the fuse to the Soviets.

The Senate subcommittee said it released the part of the FBI report dealing with Mr. X to show why it wants to question Gouzenko. Gouzenko turned against Russia in 1945 and enabled Canada to crack open operations of a Soviet spy network with contacts in the United States.

At Ottawa, there was no official comment and no apparent official concern. It was believed here information dealing with a member of King's staff had been made public before in the United States.

J. E. Carey, a provincial vice-president of the national association, organized the island branch.

Farouk's Cousin Draws 15 Years

CAIRO (Reuters)—Prince Abbas Halim, hemonocled cousin of ex-king Farouk, today drew a 15-year prison sentence for treason, although he claimed to be a strong opponent of the deposed monarch. The revolutionary tribunal granted the prince a stay of execution, however, pending a possible appeal.

During the nine-hour trial, the defendant told of many alleged scandals concerning the former royal family and the Farouk regime. He was convicted of "committing acts considered treason to the motherland and against its security."

Hollywood Divided Over Future of 3-D

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Hollywood is divided today over whether 3-D is here to stay or has fizzled out as a one-year wonder.

Most movie-makers, after throwing everything at audiences from lions to corpses, have given up trying to produce a nation of four-eyed film fans.

Film studios are busy now with wide-screen or cinema-scope superwide screen pictures; not one 3-D epic is on a future schedule.

Even theatre managers report audiences cheer when a sign flashes on the screen, "You don't need glasses for the next picture."

But an MGM musical, "Kiss Me, Kate," surprised the cinema experts by turning out a bigger hit in 3-D than in 2-D.

MGM projected the color spectacle two ways to test how the customer's box office dollar was blowing. The standard two-dimensional version was shown in Houston, Rochester and Evansville, Ind. As the film was shot with 3-D in mind, Ann Miller's stocking and Kathryn Grayson's beer mug were thrown at the camera, but they didn't fall out of the 2-D screen.

The audience ducked under the onslaught of flying chorus girls in the 3-D version shown in Syracuse, Columbus and Dallas—and the movie drew more customers.

Producer Jack Cummings, who made the movie, admitted the 3-D version was given more publicity and exploitation in those cities. But he insisted "it wasn't enough to matter that much."

"We were gratified at the response of the public to 3-D," he said. "Apparently 3-D is an added value, an attraction."

Other 3-D epics haven't fared so well. Paramount's "Those Redheads From Seattle," filmed in 3-D, was released in most areas in regular 2-D.

Island's History Seen by Speaker As Tourist Draw

Stories of the romance and history of Vancouver Island would be infinitely preferable to so-called "crime" stories children read today, Bruce A. McKelvie, journalist, historian, author and raconteur, told the Rotary Club Tuesday.

He said also that the Island's traditions, if properly exploited, "would mean many millions in additional tourist income."

In reviewing Island history, he noted that the town of Bamfield was incorrectly spelled. It was named after W. E. Banfield, who played a vital part in establishing industry at Port Alberni.

Port Alberni itself, he recalled, was named after Don Pedro Alberni, who established a fort at Nootka and won the co-operation of the Indians by writing a song extolling the virtues of the local chief.

An interesting sidelight was the establishing of a paper mill in Port Alberni in 1892—the first in B.C. Unfortunately, the machinery installed was for making paper out of rags, not raw lumber. When all available rags "from here to San Francisco" were utilized, paper was made out of bracken.

Alfred Carmichael, Rotary guest at the luncheon, was present when the unique bracken paper was manufactured.

Canadian Timber Aids Rebuilding of Pusan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations Korean relief agency has purchased more than 5,500,000 board feet of Canadian timber for use in rebuilding the Korean port of Pusan, extensively damaged by fire last week.

The timber, loaded aboard the Ss Korea at Vancouver, is due at Pusan later this week.

ADmits SLAYING—Master Sgt. Maurice L. Schick has been charged in Tokyo with the premeditated murder of nine-year-old Susan Rothschild, daughter of U.S. Army Col. Jacquard Rothschild. Known as "model soldier," 29-year-old father of two adopted Japanese daughters said he killed "just because she was there."

Driving a car without wearing glasses according to restrictions listed on his driving license cost Robert H. White, 1417 Pembroke, $25. He appeared in city police court Tuesday.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

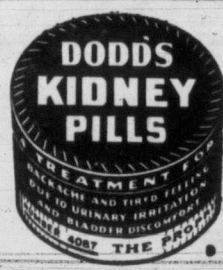

League of Roses, Lancashire and Yorkshire Society, will meet at 904 Government Street Thursday at 7:45 p.m. Moving pictures will be shown.

Driving without a current license cost Ruth McBeath, 1334 Hudson, $25 when she pleaded guilty in city court Tuesday. The offense took place Nov. 20.

A city firm known as Victoria Personnel Service was charged in city police court Tuesday with illegally billing a city woman a $5 fee for helping her secure work.

Due to the absence of managing-director of the firm in England, Magistrate Hall set a new date, two weeks from today, for preliminary hearing. No plea has been entered.

Resting—After a Long, Hard Day!

Twenty minutes ago, the man you see in this picture came out of a long and harassing conference—tired, tense and with a bit of a headache.

And he said to himself—"I'll take the long way home tonight and drive out by the waterfront, and let the Cadillac relax me!"

And that's just what he's doing. If you own a 1953 Cadillac, you know exactly what's taking place. But if you don't—let's see what happens as he climbs into the driver's seat and lets his wonderful car begin its magic.

It's relaxing just to sit there—and look out over that long, beautiful hood into the beckoning distance.

The seat cushions hold him in buoyant comfort; the slender wheel fits naturally into his hands; great areas of glass surround him and let each glance reveal a panorama.

And, of course, he's proud and happy—for it's an endless satisfaction to own and command such a respected possession.

And now comes the great lift to his spirits: He touches the key, and hears that deep-throated response so characteristic of a Cadillac engine—and, in an instant, he's off for a wonderful, wonderful hour!

Steering is no more than a gesture... the lightest touch on the throttle gets immediate action—smooth, quick and positive... the brakes are easy and certain under his foot.

So he just sits back and rolls along—with the soft sound of the wind for a lullaby—and the beautiful view for a tonic—resting, relaxing, at peace with the world!

His wife will never suspect, as he wheels into the driveway, that he was a tired and tense and weary husband just one short hour ago.

That's one of the nicest things about a Cadillac. It's a proven therapeutic for a work-weary man!

Try it, soon, at the end of a long, hard day. We'll furnish the car. You name the time and place.

New BCHIS Ruling Termed 'About Face'

Former Inquiry Board Head
Says Soereds Recover Fumble

By GORDON FORBES

The Social Credit government "fumbled" hospital insurance from the start and now has realized the soundness of the Hospital Insurance Inquiry Board's report, Kamloops' Sydney Smith, chairman of the Coalition government-appointed board, said today.

Mr. Smith, in a telephone interview with the Times, said the government's action in returning to a compulsory system is a "complete about face."

Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin announced the reversal in policy after a special cabinet meeting late Tuesday. It means an end to the government's ill-fated semi-voluntary plan which has been under constant attack since its institution last year.

"The Soereds have completed the circle," Mr. Smith said. He pointed out that one of his board's strongest recommendations was that hospital insurance must be kept compulsory.

"The Soereds stole two general elections and two by-elections by promising people they could operate hospital insurance on a voluntary system by some magic means."

"They stubbornly resisted the advice of the inquiry board report for one and a half years to realize the board was right."

Mr. Smith said he's remained silent on hospital insurance for one and a half years to give the new government a chance. "But the period of probation is over."

He said the Soereds reminded him of Sir Walter Scott's lines: "O what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive."

EISENHOWER VETOES TALK ON RED CHINA

No Bermuda Parley On Entry Into UN

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, on the eve of the Big Three conference in Bermuda, said today the question of admitting Red China to the United Nations is not a question open to negotiation with anybody at the present time.

Mr. Eisenhower, at his news conference, likewise refused to make any commitment on whether the United States regards the latest Russian note as a suitable basis for a Big Four meeting with the Soviets.

He said there are points which need study and if his government feels indispensable conditions are met it will agree to the meeting which it has sought for many months.

NO WARFRONTS CUT

Mr. Eisenhower pledged that any cuts in American troop strength made possible through economies would not affect units closest to hostile positions. He said such a reduction of American troops could only be attained when political considerations make them possible.

The president was asked whether the entry of Communist China into the United Nations "would be a subject for negotiation at the Bermuda meeting" with British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and French Premier Joseph Laniel.

The president replied that he and his associates agree that under present circumstances that question is not open to negotiation with anybody.

NO RED CHINA ACTION

The president's firm reply vetoed the prospect of any action on Red China, either its entry to the U.N. or diplomatic recognition, in his discussions with Churchill.

The president said he looked toward the Bermuda meeting as an opportunity to prevent misunderstandings by reaching positive and co-operative basis of agreement wherever possible. He said the meeting would seek to co-ordinate Allied actions on a fair basis and to avoid clashes.

Unity Among Nations Only Hope, Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, backing up State Secretary Dulles' blast at Senator Joseph McCarthy, Rep. Wis., declared today that unity among free nations "is our only hope for survival."

Like Dulles, Eisenhower did not mention McCarthy by name. But the president told a press conference he is "in full accord with the statements made Tuesday by Secretary Dulles."

Dulles had asserted that criticism such as that fired by McCarthy attacks the very heart of United States foreign policy. Eisenhower had anticipated questioning about the matter, and announced he had prepared his views in writing because, he said, they would be the only words he would have to say on the subject.

SHARP ISSUES

The president also took sharp issue with McCarthy on another subject—repeating that he believes the Communists in government issue will be out of the picture by the time the congressional elections occur next year.

Red Radio Charges Dulles With Lying

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today accused State Secretary Dulles of the United States of lying when he described Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania as "captives" of the Soviet Union.

Commentator Leontyev asserted Dulles was "not telling the truth and knows it" when he told a House of Representatives committee Monday that "the Baltic republics were seized by the Soviet Union."

By such a statement, Leontyev declared, Dulles violated the United Nations charter and U.S. obligations to a country with which it has diplomatic relations.

His Biggest Triumph Ahead?

Still hale and hearty despite his 79 years, Prime Minister Churchill arrived in Bermuda today for Big Three conference. He is shown above walking with his grandson, four-year-old Nicholas Soames, just prior to leaving Britain. With many great services behind him, the famous old man is said to believe that the current conference may be the key to his crowning ambition—that of building a real peace with Russia. (SNS photo.)

Million Britons Walk Off Jobs in Biggest Labor Tie-Up in 27 Years

LONDON (AP)—More than 1,000,000 engineering workers today closed British auto and aircraft factories, shipyards and machine shops in a 24-hour token strike for more pay.

It was Britain's biggest labor tie-up since the general strike of 1926.

From London to Glasgow and Belfast the hum of machinery ceased. Work benches were deserted.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, an organization with 39 affiliates, called the "show of strength" walkout in support of a demand for a 15-per-cent wage increase.

Industries involved estimated the production loss would reach $10,000,000.

The spokesman said the Iranian parliament has approved the decision by Premier Fazlollah Zahedi's cabinet to restore relations, broken last year by ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh as result of the bitter dispute over his nationalization of the Anglo-American Oil Company.

Zahedi was reported to have decided negotiations with Britain on the oil issue could be started again after resumption of diplomatic relations.

European Defense Depends on Outcome

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived from London today for a Big Three conference which Anglo-American diplomatic quarters believe may make or break the European defense community.

The 79-year-old prime minister's big silver stratoscoper Canopus came down from an overcast into a sunny Bermuda after flying through an Atlantic gale on its way from Gander, Newfoundland.

Troops of the crack British Royal Welch Fusiliers and air force and navy men of the United States provided a guard of honor at the airport when the plane landed at 9:31 PST.

The band of the Fusiliers provided the music.

French Premier Joseph Laniel will follow Churchill Thursday and President Eisenhower is to arrive Friday for the momentous conference which opens formally Friday afternoon.

As Churchill's plane came in, a strong wind blew across the landing field, but the gale which had buffeted it on its way down from Gander, Newfoundland, had subsided. It taxied slowly to the landing platform.

After inspecting the guard of honor Churchill was driven to the Mid-Ocean Club, where the conference will be held, in the governor's black Humber automobile at the head of a motorcade.

The crowd's greeting was warm but not so enthusiastic as that with which the Queen was greeted.

Churchill was first out of the plane, looking well. He wore a grey business suit with a bow tie. He carried his hat and walking stick. Next came For-crossings to confer with the late President Roosevelt.

The crowd cheered again. Some shouted: "Congratulations on your birthday." Sir Winston was 79 Monday.

Then he turned and went back inside the plane. The door was closed and the aircraft headed out to the runway.

Others of the 28-member British delegation, including Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and atomic adviser Lord Cherwell, remained aboard the plane.

The crowd cheered as Churchill made the familiar V sign.

"I haven't seen you for 39 years," he said. "Best of luck for the next 10."

His last visit here was on one of several wartime Atlantic crossings.

Today, no one seems to know why the board came to a sudden end, but records reveal Victoria was the exception to the rule in disbanding its parks board once it had been established. Elsewhere, once in operation, boards have been maintained.

Proponents of the scheme advance many arguments why a parks board might be expected to act more efficiently.

The big reason they give is that people who would stand for election to a parks board would be people with definite interests in that line, whereas aldermen generally have a multiplicity of interests and sometimes treat park committee work merely as another job that goes with being a councillor.

Gander Crowd Cheers PM's
V-for-Victory Salutation

GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—The stratospheric carrying Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill to the Big Three talks at Bermuda took off from Gander airport at 8:55 a.m. today.

The plane paused here about an hour for refueling.

A few minutes before the big airliner taxied out to the runway Sir Winston made a brief appearance.

Puffing the omnipresent cigar, he stood in the plane's doorway and waved to a crowd of about 200 airport workers and passengers from other aircraft.

The crowd cheered as Churchill made the familiar V sign.

"I haven't seen you for 19 years," he said. "Best of luck for the next 10."

His last visit here was on one of several wartime Atlantic crossings to confer with the late President Roosevelt.

Record Polio Deaths

EDMONTON (CP)—Polio deaths in Alberta this year today totalled an official 92—a Canadian record for deaths in any one province. The previous all-time high was set in Saskatchewan last year, when 90 died.

His Biggest Triumph Ahead?

Still hale and hearty despite his 79 years, Prime Minister Churchill arrived in Bermuda today for Big Three conference. He is shown above walking with his grandson, four-year-old Nicholas Soames, just prior to leaving Britain. With many great services behind him, the famous old man is said to believe that the current conference may be the key to his crowning ambition—that of building a real peace with Russia. (SNS photo.)

Squalls Lash
Royal Gothic

ABOARD THE LINER
GOTHIC (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II sailed past a treasure island of the first Elizabeth's era today as this rain-lashed liner plowed across the Pacific carrying her westward on her six-month world tour.

At midnight the Gothic was 112 miles past desolate Cocos Island where legend has it that pirates buried a fabulous treasure at the turn of the 17th century.

As the Gothic steamed steadily toward Fiji frequent rain squalls sprayed the deck. The skies were dark and heavy.

The Duke of Edinburgh led a team of Royal Household officials against a team of naval officers and newsmen in two games of deck hockey Tuesday. The Queen and other passengers watched.

A few minor bumps and bruises were reported in the games, which were won by the Duke's team. Later he swam in a canvas pool erected on the foredeck.

All public services operated normally. Government plants such as ordnance factories and power stations also were exempt.

Million Britons Walk Off
Jobs in 24-Hour Strike

LONDON (AP)—More than 1,000,000 engineering workers today closed British auto and aircraft factories, shipyards and machine shops in a 24-hour token strike for more pay.

It was Britain's biggest labor leap-up since the general strike of 1926.

From London to Glasgow and Belfast the hum of machinery ceased. Work benches were deserted.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, an organization with 39 affiliates, called the "show of strength" walkout in support of a demand for a 15-per-cent wage increase.

Industries involved estimated the production loss would reach $10,000,000.

Pickets guarded the gates of factories throughout the country as strikers gathered for mass meetings and protest marches, but there were no reports of disorders.

All public services operated normally.

Jenner Agrees to Abide
By Canadian Conditions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Senate internal security committee has accepted the Canadian government's terms for questioning Igor Gouzenko and it has asked U.S. Secretary of State Dulles to make arrangements for a meeting with the former Soviet embassy code clerk.

The Canadian government has specified that such a meeting must take place in Canada under circumstances which would continue the protection given to Gouzenko by the Canadian government.

This would rule out any possibility of open hearings and coverage by television cameras which have been a part of the story under his own byline, in scene at many senate committee hearings in the United States.

Canada has also specified it will rule on the "classification" again remains to be seen.

Churchill in Bermuda
For Momentous Talks

Future of European Defense
May Depend on Parley's Outcome

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (UP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill arrived from London today for a Big Three conference which Anglo-American diplomatic quarters believe may make or break the European defense community.

The 79-year-old prime minister's big silver stratoscruiser Canopus came down from an overcast into a sunny Bermuda after flying through an Atlantic gale on its way from Gander, Newfoundland.

Troops of the crack British Royal Welch Fusiliers and air force and navy men of the United States provided a guard of honor at the airport when the plane landed at 9:31 PST.

Crowd of 400 Welcomes Winnie

Bermuda's governor, Lt. Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, and a crowd of about 400 welcomed Churchill when he stepped from his plane—the same one that brought Queen Elizabeth to Bermuda last week.

The crowd's greeting was warm but not so enthusiastic as that with which the Queen was greeted.

Churchill was first out of the plane, looking well. He wore a grey business suit with a bow tie. He carried his hat and a walking stick. Next came Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, wearing a blue suit and his customary black Homburg hat.

The hale and hearty appearance of the prime minister was noted, despite his recent illness and the rough passage which delayed his plane about 90 minutes.

After inspecting the guard of honor Churchill was driven to the Mid-Ocean Club, where the conference will be held, in the governor's black Humber automobile. He was at the head of a motorcade.

Parks Board; Yes or No

New Civic Election Issue Has Interesting History

By DAVE STOCK
City Hall Reporter

The current civic campaign has once again pushed to the forefront the question of whether Victoria should have an elected parks board.

The matter has been bandied about often over the years but in practically every instance has been pushed to one side before anything definite was done about it.

It is not generally known—or, to be more correct, it has been generally forgotten—that Victoria at one time did have a parks board. It was set up in 1907 when Mayor A. J. Morley headed the council. The board established the city's nurseries and worked out a plan for parks board since 1927 and Nanaimo since 1945. Penitence turned to the board system in 1950.

There's no mystery about what a park board does. It would be required to plan policy for development and maintenance of parks, boulevards, beaches and playgrounds and promotion of recreation—exactly what the present city parks committee does.

Proponents of the scheme advance many arguments why a parks board might be expected to act more efficiently.

The big reason they give is that people who would stand for election to a parks board would be people with definite interests in that line, whereas aldermen generally have a multiplicity of interests and sometimes treat park committee work merely as another job that goes with being a councillor.
